Read It In His Newspaper.

George Schaub, a well known German citizen of Newton, has been a constant reader of the Dayton Volkszeitung. He knows that this paper aims to advertise only the best in its columns, and when he saw Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised therein for lame back, he did not hesitate in buying a bottle of it for his wife, who for eight weeks had suffered with the most terrible pains in her back and could get no relief. He said: "After using the Pain Balm for a few days my wife said to me, 'I feel as though born anew,' and before using the entire contents of the bottle the unbearable pains had entirely vanished and she could again take up her household duties." He is very thankful and hopes that all suffering likewise will hear of her wonderful recovery. This valuable liniment is for sale by all druggists.

SENTENCE OF 60 DAYS GIVEN.

PUNISHMENT ADMINISTERED TO TWO BOYS FOR SOUNDING FALSE ALARM OF FIRE.

If the sentence imposed by Judge Kennedy upon William J. Pendergast, 17, and Joseph O'Brien, 16, both guilty of sounding a false alarm of fire, has the desired effect, not only will these two boys be justly punished but a repetition of this offense prevented.

Pendergast and O'Brien were arrested Memorial Day by Patrolman Dalton. Their cases were tried Saturday. Each pleaded guilty.

In passing upon the case Judge Kennedy said that there was no more dangerous practice than such as these boys had indulged in. No one could tell what might happen when a false alarm was pulled. The box they pulled was 281 and in a remote section of the city. More than 10 pieces of apparatus responded. All of these might have been badly needed had a fire broken out elsewhere.

Pendergast and O'Brien were sentenced to 60 days in the county jail.

Women suffering from Headache, Backache, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Melancholy, Fainting and Dizzy Spells will find it a priceless blessing. Try it. Satisfaction guaranteed. Trick 3. South's lead of trumps is sound whist.

Trick 6. West overreaches himself in his efforts to force his partner.

Trick 8. East can save one trick here by leading the trump, but evidently is afraid of leading his suit.

Trick 9. South continues to rub it in with the diamonds.

How many average whist players stop to consider how many cards of the suit have been played when about to lead the second

With eight cards falling on two rounds, and three still left in the leader's hand, something is sure to happen if it is led

Police Paragraphs.

Patrolman and Mrs. David Neagle of West Newton have been the recipients of congratulations this week on the birth of a son.

The following are vacationists having left last Saturday: J. W. Quilty, J. F. Lucey, T. L. Dolan, H. L. Mahan and Henry Tibbets. They return June 15.

Dr. Charles H. Barnes of Newton Highlands, whose marriage to Miss Louise A. Pierce, more than a year ago, created some what of a sensation, was in Court Saturday charged with assault with a dangerous weapon on Deputy Sheriff M. Frank Eastman of Boston. According to the evidence presented before Judge Kennedy, Eastman went on April 24 to Dr. Barnes' home on Centre street to serve a precept on Mrs. Barnes. Eastman admitted that he did not show his badge, but told Dr. Barnes that he was an officer. The latter became angry. Going up stairs he secured a revolver and threatened to shoot Eastman if he did not leave. The defence refuted the testimony of Eastman and claimed no violence was used. Judge Kennedy found Barnes guilty and fined him $20 which he paid. The trouble arose over a suit which Dr. Barnes has brought in the Superior Court against the Newton Centre Trust Company to recover a deposit of several thousand dollars in Mrs. Barnes' name. Barnes holds the deposit book, but the trust company refuses to pay over the sum, alleging that no order of notice has been served on them and that Mrs. Barnes is not in full possession of her faculties.

A home has been found for 12-year-old Mary Johnson who came to Newton last week, apparently without any friends. Mr. Fowle of the charity department was the recipient of nearly a score of applications of men and women who offered to adopt the little girl. The state board of charity took Mary in charge and would have given her a home had not her aunt, Miss Ellen Hayes of West Newton stepped in and taken the little one.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. F. Greenman of Watertown, and witnessed by relatives and a few intimate friends.

The bride wore an imported gown of crepe de chine with white point de gene lace and chiffon, the customary orange blossoms and a veil, and she carried white bride's roses. Her only ornament was a diamond sunburst at the girdle.

One of the first June weddings in Newton, was the marriage, Tuesday evening, of Miss Grace Whittemore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Whittemore of Newton Highlands, and Mr. Walter Hibbard Seaver of New Haven, Conn.

The ceremony took place at the home of the bride on Lincoln street, at 7.30, and was performed by the Rev. Everett D. Burr of Newton Centre. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

She wore white liberty satin trimmed with embroidered duchesse lace and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Edith Whittemore, who was gowned in pink satin trimmed with crepe de chine lace and carried pink roses.

The best man was Henry Seaver of Pittsfield, and the ushers were Messrs. Herman A. Heydt of New York, Stephen E. Balch of New York, John V. Crooks of Boston, and Henry Seaver of New York.

About 250 guests from Boston, Brookline and the various Newtons witnessed the ceremony. The house was prettily decorated.

Carpenters Strike Is On.

Because of the failure of several large contracting firms of this city, Watertown and Waltham, to meet the demand of the Carpenter's Union which is in effect an 8-hour day without a reduction of pay, there are more than 200 carpenters on a strike.

Both sides appear to be conservative in the matter. There is nothing disorderly in the movements of the strikers. They are hustling among the non-union men and are daily swelling their own ranks. Those contractors who are determined not to yield, will test the strength of the union, it is said.

It is hoped, however, that there will be a meeting soon between both sides and that some amicable arrangement will be reached.

The Twentieth Century.

The advent of the new century is to be commemorated by the Newton Graphic in the publication of a handsomely bound volume, entitled, "Newton, The Garden City of the Commonwealth, 1874-1901." It will contain valuable and interesting historical matter, fully illustrated with half-tone engravings of churches, schools, residences street views, parks, etc. The history will tell of leading events, characters and progress of the city, and the many advantages of Newton as a beautiful and desirable place of residence will be fully shown. The volume will also contain the portraits and biographies of representative men who, in their lives, their work or their influence have made Newton of today the garden city of the Commonwealth and of New England.

It is believed that such a work will commend itself to the citizens of Newton as bringing together in a carefully collated record of the lives of men who have contributed to the welfare of our city; men of whom we are justly proud as educators, lawyers, physicians, clergymen and men of affairs.

Such a publication at this time will give to the present, an up to date account of the city and will bequeath to the future a legacy of what Newton was at the beginning of what promises to be a most remarkable century.

I want a clerk, said the merchant, who is without friends or relatives.

Why do you insist on that?

METHODS OF SUICIDE.

How Desperate Persons Adopt Prevailing Styles of Destruction.

"The remarkable methods several suicides have adopted in this city recently call attention to the fact that methods of self destruction are largely matters of suggestion," said a doctor. "When a man gets in that condition where he wants to die, he has little inventive ability and adopts the method that has been brought to his mind. You will notice that after one person kills himself with acid there follows a long list of acid suicides. It is the same with any unusual method. One person gets up an original way, and that inspires the next one to try his hand until we have a whole series of such gruesome novelties."

"I have proved this theory. Several years ago I was discussing this feature of suicide with several friends, including the coroner. They ridiculed my theory. I offered to prove it. It happened that shooting and hanging were popular just then. I wrote an article for a newspaper on the horrors of strangulation and pistol wounds and explained the ease with which one could kill himself with prussic acid. Death from prussic acid, you know, is absolutely instantaneous and, many believe, painless. There had not been a suicide with this acid for more than a year, but within a week after the article was published there were four, and one of the unfortunates had clippings of my article in his pocket.

"Of course I was accused of killing these four by suggestion, but I was never arrested and do not feel guilty, for when once a person has decided to kill himself the method is a slight matter. No person in his right mind will commit suicide. We all know in our sane moments of easy ways to end life, but when in the suicidal frame of mind nature seems to rob us of our reason in this direction, as if in a desperate hope of preventing the sacrifice."—New York Mail and Express.

HOUSES ON "MADE" GROUND

The Reason They Teem With Malaria and Noxious Gases.

Good gravel has so largely come into request that many suburban lands with that valuable substratum are quarried to a considerable depth before being sold on building leases. But it is essential to restore a level surface, as even the most speculative builder would hesitate to run up "neat white residences" in deep holes. The owner frequently gets over this difficulty by allowing urban refuse to be shot into the excavation; in many cases he even exacts a small sum for every load thrown on his ground. The surface being thus leveled, a year or two are allowed for the soil to sink and become compact. Occasionally grass is sown to give a natural appearance to the spot.

Is now in readiness for the builder, who proceeds to lay the foundation for his "terraces," "avenues" and "gardens," which he subsequently advertises as "on gravel soil." So they are, but between their ground floors and the gravel lies a thick stratum of partially decomposed rubbish, teaming with malaria, and not for many years will the deposits cease to give off noxious gases.

But the tenant, coming from a different locality, knows nothing of the "making" process to which the plot has been subjected. When, therefore, ill health dogs his family, he puts it down to defective drainage or some other structural deficiency and spends money freely on remedial measures without the least benefit. All this misery might be prevented if it were legally prohibited to build human habitations on decomposed refuse until the soil had acquired a wholesome character.—London Globe.

How They Treated Washington. As an example of the progress of medicine during the last century The Medical Record cites the case of Washington's last illness. He died of laryngeal diphtheria, and the treatment was what would seem, for an old man sick with a disease, very exhausting to the vitality. It consisted in the abstraction of between two and three quarts of blood, the administration of about 20 grains of calomel and 6 grains of tartar emetic and an injection, with external application of blister. And yet so strong was Washington's constitution that he survived this treatment for 24 hours.

One Coming.

"Could you tell me the meaning of the word 'cataclysm'?" he asked of the street car passenger who was folding up his newspaper.

"Are you going to ride two or three blocks farther?" was queried in reply.

"Yes, sir."

"Then you'll see one. The conductor has carried that sharp nosed woman two streets past where she wanted to get off already, and she'll wake up soon and start a cataclysm that'll probably jump the car off the track!"—Washington Post.

Newton Club.

The first promenade concert of the season on Wednesday evening was given under ideal conditions which attracted a large audience. The former scheme of electric lighting was repeated, although the grounds were extended to form an area behind the bandstand, and decorated with palms and ferns. The tables were also massed in the centre, surrounded by an aisle for dancing. The Salem Cadet Band rendered the following program:

Overture, Orpheus
Waltz, The Christian
Solo for cornet, An Irish Folk-Song
Mr. B. B. Keyes.

Two Step, A Frangese
Selection, The Baroness
Waltz, Madame Sans-Gene
Selection, L'engren
Two Step, The Bonaparte Parade
Selection, The Serenade
Herbert
a. Waltz, Wedding of the Winds
b. March, Promenade Militaire
Missud

Mr. Keyes gave the popular Kangaroo dance for an encore to his solo, and the selection from B. Trovatore, which is a favorite with this band, was given as an extra number. The electric car service after the concert was excellent and Supt. Spring should be commended for his arrangements.

An excellent match in the pool tournament was played last Saturday between Page and Anders, the former being the victor.

WOOD-YARD FOR UNEMPLOYED.

PLAN OF CHARITY DEPARTMENT TO ESTABLISH ONE AT NONANTUM THAT WILL BENEFIT ALL NEEDY MEN.

It is the intention of the charity department of Newton to put in operation, with the consent of the city fathers, a wood yard in Nonantum such as will prove a boon and benefit to the unemployed.

The plan is to erect a shed in rear of hose 8 building of Watertown street and within the watchfulness of station 2 patrolmen. To obstruct the inquisitive gaze of the public a fence will be built. The enclosure will contain plenty of wood and such implements as will aid the workers in preparing wood for the market, or better, the stove.

able-bodied men who seek municipal aid will be invited to the wood-yard where they may labor an allotted time and there by earn what assistance is given them. This, it is understood, will include those men where the life is essentially the same as that of the police station. Of course a meal will be included.

Under the present system the charity department has no positive assurance that an applicant is without work and that he has made faithful efforts to secure employment. The woodyard is expected to act as a test. Those possessing muscle, but lacking courage, must not expect, after the wood yard is established to find any section of the "world of graft" within Newton's borders.

Naturally readers will wonder what is to be done of the wood. This is easily explained. It will be delivered to those in need of fuel and to municipal buildings. The schools, highway department and fire stations, have plenty of use for fuel and may readily be supplied by this method. Boston, Springfield and Wakefield are among the places who speak highly of the scheme.

The finance committee of the city has under consideration, the appropriation of $700 to be expended in establishing the plant.

Value of a Vacation.

A noted college professor who has studied the life of the average American of today, with its intense mental and physical activity, says with much wisdom, that in order to get the most value in the least time the vacation should be spent as far from the cities as possible, and in the open air. Many, by going to fashionable resorts where the life is essentially the same as led in cities, lose the essence of a vacation, which is change—not alone of scene but of occupation. Persons who have not yet made their vacation plans for the summer should see the Central Vermont railway's illustrated book on Vermont and Lake Champlain before setting this most important problem of the year. A four-cent stamp enclosed to Mr. T. H. Hanley, New England passenger agent, at 306 Washington street, Boston, will bring the attractive publication by return mail.

Mrs. Norwich—Oh, dear, no! My husband don't have to be in business any more. He's just a gentleman now.

Mrs. Bingham—That must be a pleasant change for him.

MISS MARY E. P. SLOAN,

WHITMAN BLOCK, Opposite Newton Bank.

A Lasting Impression of a Woman.

A young man's first and most permanent impression of a woman is often the appearance of her feet. This is not a Tennysonian thought, there is nothing idyllic about it, for most practical thoughts are commonplace, and most men are practical and commonplace. When a sweet and pretty girl in an exquisite dove gray gown sweetly strolls along the Common malls, she feels satisfied, not knowing that every man who passes by condemns her if her shoes are ill-fitting and not neat. The effect of a good figure in a modish gown is never destroyed if "miladi" wears Sorosis Shoes, for they keep their neat, trig shape, and the heel being comfortable and sensible, never yields to the side wearing tendency (so shocking in its effect) of other shoes.

The Sorosis

is a foot covering for women; constructed in harmony with modern hygienic laws; embodying all the ease features of a man's shoe, yet neat and attractive, and sold at the never varying price of $3.50 the pair, in all styles.

Fear of the Dead.

Fear of the dead is instinctive in man. There is no doubt about that. I do not profess to be able to enter into the exact reasons for that fear; whether it be that man instinctively recoils from contemplation of the fallen temple alone or what not, it is sufficient that the fear exists.
Neither is this instinctive fear of the dead confined to man. I owned a horse once that could never be driven past a dead horse. The animal exhibited all the signs of true fear.
Fear coupled with shock can produce insanity. I do not think that the reason of a normal man would be unsettled if he were locked up alone with a corpse for many hours, though a person with weak nerves certainly might be so affected. If a man discovered that his sweetheart had died suddenly while alone with him, the shock might render him insane.
Even to those most familiar with death and dead bodies there is something awe inspiring about a corpse, and no man's nerves are proof against a fright. I remember once, when I was alone in the dissecting room at night, the hand of the subject upon which I was engaged became loosened. I did not notice what had happened. Suddenly the arm of the subject swung around, and the hand struck the side of my face. Years of training in immunity from superstition vanished in the jump that I gave.—Dr. John D. Quackenbush in New York World.

Watches That They Lead.

"They are all alike," remarked a man coming out of a Woodward avenue watchmaker's, accompanied by a lady. "Who?" inquired his wife. "Watchmakers." "How?" "I thought other cities maybe weren't quite like our small town in the wild and wicked west, but they are and more so. I take my watch, which, as you know, is a fine gold one, full jeweled, costing $300, in to have a few repairs, much or little, as may be, and the boss timekeeper gives me an old battered tin watch to carry in its place that makes me ashamed to look into the face of a reputable watch for weeks. In addition it excites suspicion in the minds of my nearest friends when they see me take it out, and if I should die with that watch on my person in a strange country the newspapers would say, 'Judging from the watch found on the deceased, he must have come from New Jersey.' Now, what I want to know is why don't jewelers have 'substitute watches' to match their customers? That is to say, let the customer's watch left for repairs determine the kind of watch he is to carry until he gets his own again." But his wife couldn't tell him to save her life.—Detroit Free Press.

Didn't See the Joke.

"It isn't safe to be funny these days unless one labels one's jokes," said a woman who went abroad recently. "You know, I've always rather fancied myself as a wit, and on the steamer coming home I really let myself out. Everybody was a bit seasick, and I—Well, even I had times when I thought I'd rather own an automobile than any kind of a yacht. One day we all foregathered on deck and talked about what we'd gone through—you know how people do on shipboard. I was talking in my cleverest vein with an English family. "I'm like a famous lady," I chortled gayly. "I'll be extremely glad to set foot on terra cotta again." "That evening the mother of the English family took me aside. "My dear," she said, "I'm so much older than you that I am sure I may make so bold as to tell you something, and I want you to take it in the spirit in which it is meant. You said this morning you'd be glad to set foot on terra cotta again. I thought I'd just call your attention to the thing so you won't make the same mistake again. It isn't terra cotta, it's terra firma."—Washington Post.

Surface Indications.

From "A Book on Dartmouth," written by the Rev. S. Baring-Gould, comes a story which might have come from a less trustworthy source:
The wild and romantic country of Dartmouth consists of a tableland with rugged peaks or tors and all but impassable marshes. After a dry summer it is easy to pick one's way across parts of it which at other times are full of pitfalls. At one of the latter periods a man was cautiously treading his way across one of the treacherous marshes when he saw a hat lying brim downward on the sedge. He gave it a gentle, good humored kick in passing and almost jumped out of his skin when a choked voice called out from beneath: "What be you a-doin to my 'at?" "Be there now a chap under'n?" exclaimed the traveler. "Ees, I reckon, and a hoss under me likewise."

A Difficult Wife.

An Englishman thus describes the wife of his bosom in his will: "Heaven seems to have sent her into the world solely to drive me out of it. The strength of Samson, the genius of Homer, the prudence of Augustine, the skill of Pyrrhus, the patience of Job, the philosophy of Socrates, the subtlety of Hannibal, the vigilance of Hermogenes, would not suffice to subdue the perversity of her character."—Exchange.

A Popular Host.

Traveler—El? Has this hotel changed hands?
Clerk—Yes; the old landlord busted up; owed thousands of dollars to all the provision dealers in the neighborhood. For every $10 he took in he spent $20.
Traveler—Too bad, too bad! He's the only landlord I ever met who knew how to keep a hotel.—New York Weekly.

New Quarters for N. & W. Gas Co.

The Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company has completed its plans for remodeling the old bank building on Washington street, Newton, which it recently purchased from the Newton National Bank. The architect Mr. Ernest N. Boyden, has presented plans for extending the front about seven feet, to be carried up two stories and to be constructed of buff brick with granite trimmings. The new front will have three large plate glass windows and presents a fine appearance as shown in the cut.

In addition to the rear will provide a commodious office for the treasurer, adjoining the director's room, and the room at the left of the main entrance will provide ample accommodation for the office force. The room at the right will be used at present for storage, toilet rooms, etc., and ample storage is provided in the second story. The cost will probably exceed $10,000. A. B. Murdough of Watertown has the contract for alterations and is now at work.

INDIGNANT

Upper Falls Citizens' School Protest.

Sharp, Severe and Determined Speeches.

Citizens of Upper Falls held an indignation meeting last evening to protest against the reappointing of Charles G. Wetherbee, master, and the retiring of Miss Martha L. Perkins, first assistant, of the Wade school. The gathering was on the grounds of Charles Mills estate on High street.

The schoolhouse itself had been refused the committee as a place for the meeting. Darius Cobb presided, and the meeting was enthusiastic and unanimous in sentiment.

A motion was adopted without a dissenting vote to authorize the committee who are conducting the agitation to consider the advisability of asking the Supreme Court for an injunction restraining the School Board from unjustly retiring Miss Perkins.

The following two resolutions were carried:

First, that it was the sense of the meeting that the Newton School Board had "acted with reprehensible discourtesy" in refusing to consider the petition of the citizens of Newton Upper Falls; and it was further resolved that those present will strive to defeat the board at the polls.

Second, that it is the sense of the meeting that Charles G. Wetherbee has by his misconduct of the affairs of the Wade school proved himself unworthy to be longer the master of said school; and that the citizens of Newton Upper Falls again request the immediate removal of Mr. Wetherbee from Wade school.

There were many speakers and their words were all indorsements of the spirit and the object of the meeting.

Mr. Charles Mills asked all present to unite in preventing the re-election of the three following named members of the School Board: Mr. Benner, its chairman, Mr. Rand of Newton Centre and Mr. Luitweller of Newton Highlands.

Other speakers were H. E. Locke, W. H. Thompson, Frank W. McAleer, Miss E. Sabin, Miss Cobb, C. R. Brown, Mrs. L. C. Wade and F. W. Cole.

On all hands the board came in for sharp criticism and condemnation.

Annual Meeting of Corporation Saturday.

The annual meeting of the Newton Cemetery Corporation and of its trustees was held last Saturday afternoon in the Farlow Memorial chapel on the cemetery grounds. Prior to convening the lot holders enjoyed an inspection of the grounds, and there were many compliments for Superintendent H. Wilson Ross on its fine appearance.

The following trustees were re-elected: E. B. Haskell, W. P. Tyler, Otis Petter, A. R. Mitchell, E. L. Pickard, Francis Murdoch, George Frost, E. M. Fowle and C. F. Eddy. At the meeting of the trustees, which followed, these officers were chosen: President, E. B. Haskell; vice president, W. P. Tyler; treasurer and superintendent, H. W. Ross; clerk, E. M. Fowle.

In accordance with the authority voted by the corporation at the annual meeting in June, 1900, the trustees issued coupon notes, bearing date of July 1, 1900, at five percent, with the proceeds of which all the debts of the corporation, including fifteen thousand dollars due to the estate of the late Henry Ross for land and buildings purchased of him adjoining the cemetery, at the corner of Walnut and Homer streets, were paid off. These notes were readily placed. It is provided that the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars shall be set aside each year for the creation of a sinking fund, which shall be held sacred for the payment of the notes at maturity. This act places our finances in a comfortable condition, and with reasonable economy we hope to be able to meet all ordinary demands. It must be remembered, however, that this is not a money-making corporation, and that the trustees feel that their first duty is to keep the cemetery in so good a condition that it will continue to meet the requirements of an intelligent and critical community.

Our recent request that proprietors who had not already done so should put the provision of perpetual care on their lots has met with quite a generous response, materially enlarging the Perpetual Care Fund. About one hundred and seventy-five lots are still held without this provision, and we again urge the owners to attend to a matter which is for their own personal interest as well as for the general interest of the whole cemetery.

In the last year the price of the Perpetual Care provision has been advanced fifty per cent, which is still much lower than in other cemeteries comparable with ours. The advance was made urgently necessary by the decrease in the rate of income on invested funds.

The most important work of the year under review has been the installation of a water plant, and as a result we have our ponds full and to supply a much enlarged service on the grounds.

The city government gave us $4000 to make good the damage to the water supply of our ponds by the construction of a sewer through Walnut street and a portion of the cemetery near Walnut street. The water plant complete has cost nearly seven thousand dollars, but as it serves the double purpose mentioned above, is built in the most substantial manner, and promises to suffice for many years, we believe the money has been wisely expended. We were able to make a reasonable contract with the electric power company on Homer street, under which we obtain our power for pumping without money compensation, that company accepting in place of money an assurance of an ample water supply for condensing their steam.

The general condition of the Newton cemetery is better than ever before, and we observe a growing demand for lots from people who live outside our city limits. The reasons they give are that the cemetery preserves a beautifully simple rural character, and that the prices are lower than in any cemetery of the same grade. While our cemetery is first for the citizen of Newton we welcome those from other municipalities who appreciate the advantages we offer.

For the Trustees,
E. B. HASKELL, Pres.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

Foundations for twenty-two (22) monuments and one hundred and four tablets and markers have been laid during the year. Three curbing and one iron fence have been removed.

Interments have been made as follows:

In lots	176
In single graves	59
In city lot	25
Total	240
Whole number of interments to June 1, 1901,	5567
Number remaining in tomb June 1, 1900,	5
Number deposited from June 1, 1900 to June 1, 1901,	24
Number removed from June 1, 1900 to June 1, 1901,	24
Number remaining June 1, 1901,	5
Forty persons have purchased lots during the year.
Number of lot owners June 1, 1901,	1584
Number of 300 ft. lots sold to June 1, 1901,	1405
Number of 100 ft. lots sold to June 1, 1901,	1437
Average price per foot, $1.40.

The chapel has been used nineteen times. About $1000 worth of work has been performed by men in the cemetery. Seven horses have been employed.

In addition to the above the following work has been performed besides the regular care of the cemetery:
An independent water supply has been installed, consisting of a pump house containing electric motor and two pumps. One, a centrifugal pump, is to be used for supplying water for the ponds, and the other, a triplex piston pump, is for the cemetery service. Although this water is not suitable for drinking purposes, it will add greatly to our former supply, at a nominal expense.

A water tank and tower have been erected to give sufficient pressure for the cemetery supply, and large pipes have been laid throughout the cemetery increasing the capacity of our output very materially.

The mud on the bottom of the pond at the north of Section 3 was removed last summer and used to finish the slope north of the single grave section, containing about an acre, which is now ready to be sold for lots.

More than two thousand shrubs have been planted in the cemetery grounds, and in a few years they should add greatly to the beauty of the grounds.

A bath-room was made in the Matteson house at a cost of $225. We have been very fortunate during this last year in the sale of lots, which has amounted to $13,358, more than a thousand dollars greater than any previous year's sales.

FIRE AT THE HOSPITAL.

THAYER WARD DAMAGED EARLY SATURDAY MORNING—NURSES CARED FOR PATIENTS WITH COMMENDABLE COOLNESS, AND FIREFMEN BRAVELY PREVENTED SPREAD OF FLAMES.

At 12 13 Saturday morning an alarm from boy 541 summoned the fire department to the Newton hospital, Woodland, where a fierce blaze was in progress in the Thayer ward. This section of the hospital forms a south west addition to the main building, is built of wood and is high-studded.

The Thayer ward contained thirty patients, but fortunately all but three were able to walk from the beds when aroused by the nurses. To the matron and her assistants is due considerable praise for their coolness. There were no accidents and aside from the inconvenience the loss was not particularly severe. The damage will amount to about $2,500.

It is believed that the blaze originated in the disinfecting closet, where one of the nurses had lighted a gas jet about twenty minutes before the fire broke out. From investigation it is shown that there was no explosion, but there is every evidence that the upper part of the gas jet was loose. From this the theory is formed that the gas escaped, resulting in the disastrous blaze. The flames had gained considerable headway when the firemen reached the place and it was with the greatest difficulty that the adjoining wooden structures were saved. For this the firemen have been highly commended.

The interior of the ward was badly damaged and the entire roof burned off. Furnishings and contents suffered from fire and water.

My little son had an attack of whooping cough and was threatened with pneumonia, but for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy we would have had a serious time of it. It also saved him from several severe attacks of croup.—H. J. SARGENT, editor World Herald, Fair Haven, Wash. For sale by all druggists.

Firemen Burke Injured.

Edward J. Burke, acting relief driver of the fire department who lives at 164 Adams street, sustained severe injuries in a runaway accident Monday morning. Burke was driving Chemical A's horses, attached to a fuel wagon, on Washington street, West Newton. When in front of the post office the reins became entangled. The driver reached forward to straighten the reins and one of the horses kicked breaking the wagon pole. This started both animals to run away. Burke did his best to manage his horses but was thrown on the Washington street bridge. He fell against the superstructure and fractured a bone in his right arm and received two scalp wounds. He was taken to the Newton hospital in the police ambulance where his condition is now reported as improving. The horses were captured on the Auburn street bridge with the badly damaged fuel wagon.

There was a good attendance in the parlors of Channing church last Friday afternoon and evening, the occasion being a June festival held under the auspices of the Sunday school. Supper was served at 5 30 and later the following program was presented by children of the Dorothea Dix House, Boston, under the direction of Miss Whipple, the superintendent; song, Anita Thomas and May Green; recitations by E. S. Brooks. The character parts were taken by Agla Rose as Richard; May Greene as Dorothy and Arabella represented by the doll.

POLICE TOOK JACK-POT.

FIVE POKER PLAYERS ARRESTED SUNDAY AFTERNOON—ONE TOOK REFUGE IN THE RIVER, BUT ALL WERE ARRESTED—FINED $5 EACH.

With a straight-flush of clubs last Sunday afternoon, Patrolman B. F. Burke of division 2 scooped a Jack-pot in the form of an out-door poker-party on the river marsh between Newton and Faneuil. There were five in game.

Substituted for the green baize of the gaming table was the broad expanse of greensward furnished conveniently and free of charge by the city. Every body was well-heeled and no one thought of drawing on the Charles Bank.

About the time the clock had shown its hour hand good for three, and when everybody had staked with a hot egg, it looked as though the man who "pulled out" with the rake off would have all the circus tickets he wanted for the rest of the week.

One of the party had just given the pot a stir by dropping in a sizable player, when Patrolman Burke did a little graceful "rubbering" from the top of a com manding knoll. To borrow from Laura Jean Libbey, his form was silhouetted against the blue of the sky, and the awful intelligence of his presence flashed across their minds and was followed by a petrified silence.

Another instant and the players were on their feet. The officer dashed forward. One stood his ground while three made off. The fifth must have been "off" too, for he turned about and plunged into the river.

The actions of the youth who preferred an imaginary bath to a arrest made all hands think he was going to drown. Evidently the water proved too much of a "cold deal," and he came ashore, thereby relieving the minds of his friends and the officer.

The trio who started off tried to "straddle" the falls to Faneuil, where the patrolman caught up with them. They were in good time to assist the "wet man" to the station.

Burke confiscated a pack of cards, and after the young men had been booked, gave the swimmer a blanket to cover him until a change could be provided by his agents.

In court Monday each of the party "layed down" before Judge Kennedy. There was only the testimony of Patrolman Burke and after this was told clerk Patrick made "out" from each player what he thought it might serve as a memento of their gaming on the Lord's day.

Read It In His Newspaper.

George Schaub, a well known German citizen of New Lebanon, Ohio, is a constant reader of the Dayton Volkszeitung. He knows that this paper aims to advance the best interests of the community, and when he saw Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised therein for lame back, he did not hesitate in buying a bottle of it for his wife, who for eight weeks had suffered from the most terrible pains in her back, and could get no relief. He says: "After using the Pain Balm for a few days my wife said to me, 'I feel as though born anew,' and before using the entire contents of the bottle the unbearable pains had entirely vanished and she could again take up her household duties." He is very thankful and hopes that all suffering likewise will bear the wonderful recovery. This valuable liniment is for sale by all druggists.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces, will prove the merit and the talent of the performers on this difficult instrument. Eckert and Berg, who have scored such a pretty triumph in "Little Pee Weet" will remain for one more week in this duty, operating sketch, Harry Linton and Leila McIntyre will present their new sketch, alternatively called "Chattering Chums," which is said to afford abundant opportunity for comedy and for vocalists of the happiest sort. Webb and Hassan will be recalled as a pair of very clever acrobats, whose head and hand balancing is something marvelous. The De Rigby sisters are excellent singers and graceful dancers, and there is a dash and sprightliness to their act which should make it one of the week's favorites. Others will be Teuley and Saunders, jaunty and ludicrous Irish comedians; Leonard and Dean, world's champion double club jugglers; Cotton's Donkey Circus, with Tom and Jerry, the smallest donkeys in the world; Milt and Maude Wood, in a pretty contortion and eccentric dancing act; the Ventis, direct from the Parisian music halls, in a novel exhibition of hat spinning and pantomimic tricks; and the vitagraph, with new motion views. June 11 will be a red letter day at Boston Music Hall because of the opening to patrons, free of charge, of the Japanese Tea Garden, in what once was Bumstead Hall, beneath the auditorium. This hall has been transformed into a picturesque bit of Japan, with tea house play houses for the children and innumerable novelties in the way of entertainment. At 10 o'clock will serve tea at stated hours to the ladies visiting the Tea Garden, and to those who visit the place once will want to go time and time again.

Look Ahead, Girls.

If young girls would look ahead it would sometimes save them from serious collision with the men they marry. It is here that ignorance is almost a crime. The young husband cannot understand it when the wife changes to a peevish, nervous, querulous woman. And the young wife does not understand it herself. She only knows that she is very miserable.

If ever there is a time when nature needs help it is when the young girl is adjusting herself to the new conditions of widowhood. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It promotes regularity, dries debilitating drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All womanly confidences are guarded with strict professional privacy. Write under seal or face to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I will drop you a few lines to let you know that I am feeling well now," writes Miss Annie Stephens, of Belleville, Wood Co., West Va. "I feel like a new woman. I took several bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I have no headache now, no backache, and no pain in my side any more. No bearing-down pain any more. I think there is no medicine like Dr. Pierce's medicine. I thank you very much for what you have done for me—your medicine has done me so much good."

LASELL.

Sixteen in '01 Class of Graduates.

Commencement Week Filled With Interest.

THE BATTALION DRILL.

On Saturday the military battalion of Lasell held its annual drill.

The affair took place on the broad lawn of the seminary, and was witnessed by several hundred of the friends and relatives of the cadets and members of the faculty.

The afternoon's program opened at 3 with a band concert, which was followed by the drills of company A, Capt. Ethel L. Gallagher, and company B, Capt. Florence G. Plum.

The company drills were followed by that of the junior prize squad, commanded by Capt. Florence G. Plum, and a company drill by company C, in charge of Capt. Mabel Martin. The feature of the afternoon, which came next in order, was the officers' sabre drill, the squad being in command of Adj. Edith A. Harris.

This was followed by the drill of the senior prize squad, commanded by Capt. Mabel Martin and battalion parade in charge of Capt. Ethel L. Gallagher, acting major.

The close of the afternoon prizes were distributed by Brig.-Gen. Thomas R. Matthews of the 1st brigade, M. V. M., as follows:

The company competition was won by company B, Cadet Captain Florence G. Plum commanding. Its prize was a silk guidon flag. In the senior squad competition 1st Sgt. Bessie S. Krag of company C received first prize and 1st Sgt. M. M. Malloy of company A, honorable mention. The prize in the officers' sabre drill was awarded to 1st Sgt. Ida M. Malloy of company A, and the second prize to Lieut. George H. Dunham of company A, while honorable mention was given 1st Sgt. Bessie S. Krag of company C.

In the junior prize squad Priv. Ethel K. Roselle of company B was victorious and the prize was a silk guidon flag. The broad way of Madison, N. J. He congratulated the young women on this commencement season, which was not the conclusion; it was only the beginning. It was the commencement of life's duties, its responsibilities, its joys and sorrows. He urged them to lead lives of purity, lives of earnest prayer and good action.

THE BACCALAUREATE SERMON.

There was a large attendance at the services last Sunday morning in the Auburndale Congregational church. The baccalaureate sermon was preached by Prof. S. F. Upham, D. D., of Drew Theological Seminary, of Madison, N. J. He congratulated the young women on this commencement season, which was not the conclusion; it was only the beginning. It was the commencement of life's duties, its responsibilities, its joys and sorrows. He urged them to lead lives of purity, lives of earnest prayer and good action.

CLASS NIGHT.

Class night, with its traditions and treasures and memories, was successfully observed Monday evening. Nearly 1,000 students and their friends thronged the spacious lawn and verandas about the institution buildings to witness the event. The broad veranda in front of the main building was tastefully festooned with white and yellow daisies, interwoven with fern, the colors of the graduating class. From every tree and bush about the grounds radiated of varied colored lights. The scene was fantastically grouped.

The principal exercises took place in the seminary gymnasium, which was gallantly decorated, the class colors being equally in evidence here. On the wall above the platform was an emblem bearing the class motto, "Non nobis solum" in gold and white.

Promptly at 8 the seniors, escorted by the junior class who also acted as usher, entered the hall and took their seats upon the platform. After the opening song, the president's welcome was delivered by Miss Ethlyn Fostina Barber. Then came the reading of the class motto, followed by an essay, "A word to the wise" by Miss Isabella Clemens. "The Last Will and Testament of 1901" was read by Miss Edith Dustin. The Class Prophecy was the work of Miss Ina Scott of Paris, Tex. "Modern Cartoons" by Lelia Amy Walker of Milford, "Into the Silent Land," and Harriette Smith Ward of New Haven, Conn., "The Troubadour."

Soon after a parade was formed and the company assembled on the Seminary lawn. A halt was made at the class tree and Miss Ethel Gallagher opened the exercises. The "Last Rites and Ceremonies" were performed by Miss Margaret Fisher, after which the seniors cast into the huge bonfire, already lighted, the books and red robes of the school days. With this ceremony closed the evening's exercises.

The gift of the senior class to the Seminary, this year, is a handsome silver loving cup, suitably engraved. The graduating members of the class, with the following officers: president, Ethlyn Fostina Barber; vice president, Edith Dustin; secretary, Isabella Clemens; treasurer, Bessie Marie Lum.

GRADUATING EXERCISES.

Diplomas were given the 16 graduates of Lasell seminary, Tuesday afternoon, under the most favorable auspices and in the presence of many hundreds of their enthusiastic admirers. The exercises were held in the Auburndale Congregational church at 2 o'clock.

The principal guest of the afternoon was Rev. S. Parks Cadman, D. D., pastor of the Central Congregational church of Brooklyn, N. Y. His subject was "The Puritan's Message to the Twentieth Century."

The presentation of diplomas followed. Those who received this coveted gift and their essays were: Ethlyn Fostina Barber of Milford, N. H.; "A Failing Kingdom," Cleora Bright, Brookline of Winchester, Ky.; "Life-Saving Stations of the United States," Isabella Clemens of Pottsville, Penn.; "Dilemma's Types of Womanhood," Marion Cole of Chester, Ill.; "The Hill of Council Bluffs," Edna Duester of "Public Manners," Margaret Edwina Fisher of Red Oak, Ia.; "The Chinese Home," Ethel Louise Gallagher of Auburndale; "The Utilization of Waste," Zola Hill of Council Bluffs, Ia.; "The Church the Mother of the Drama," Bessie Marie Lum of Minneapolis, Minn.; "Lorenzo the Magnificent," Mabel Martin of Springfield, O.; "The Gospel of the Quiet Life," Katherine Eliene McCoy of Kane, Penn.; "Artistic Genius," Florence Gertrude Plum of Indianapolis, Ind.; "Masters of Florentine Art," Florence Wheeler of Weylesley, "Art and Utility," Ina Scott of Paris, Tex.; "Modern Cartoons," Lelia Amy Walker of Milford, "Into the Silent Land," and Harriette Smith Ward of New Haven, Conn., "The Troubadour."

Miss Mary Louise Parker of Medford was certified in bookkeeping; and the Misses Florence Brewer of Duluth, Minn., Bessie Sanger Krag of Columbus, O., and Mabel Martin of Springfield, O., were certified in cooking. In bread making Miss Florence Brewer won first prize and Miss Mabel Martin second.

Commencement was brought to a close with the annual meeting of the alumnae at 4 o'clock and the semi-centennial banquet an hour later. The banquet proved a most fitting ending, and was as interesting as any event of the week. More than 300 were present, including students, alumnae and former teachers. Miss Lillie Rose Potter '80 was toastmaster and these responses were made: "Lasell of earlier times," Isabella Jennings Parker; "The old and the new," Edward F. Porter; "Law," Alfred Hemenway; "The economical woman—her future," Ellen H. Richards, A.M. S.B.; "Lasell as a next door neighbor," Rev. F. N. Peloubet; "Better to come," Bishop Willard F. Mallalieu; and "What lack ye yet?" Mrs. A. Livermore.

There is a man living in Sunderland, Mass., whose "business is to preach the gospel," but with their fish to sell they are not so much interested in the papers and magazines to people who will appreciate them. The Auburndale society furnishes him with a good many. It keeps a large table in the chapel to receive the contributions. It pays expressage only to Boston, whence they are forwarded with the fish. If any society has reading matter to spare this man will gladly receive more than the Golden Rule society sends him. His address is Mr. A. W. Hubbard, South Deerfield, Mass., care of Bunting and Emery, T. Wharf, Boston.

Illustrated papers are always welcome at the Seaman's Bethel 287 Hanover street, Boston. Mr. Hubbard is a fish dealer and is out with his fish to get rich dealing out the "yellow peril" in the shape of back numbers of the Sundays papers at 25 cents each. No wonder the home missionary society of various colored churches and the wholesome matter is needed and would get a reading.

Hubbard, South Deerfield, Mass., care of Bunting and Emery, T. Wharf, Boston.

Norumbega Park.

Among the many interesting features at Norumbega park none is attracting more attention than the magnificent enclosure in the Zoological garden which contain two unusually fine specimens of African lions. They have recently been imported from Germany for a special attraction at this popular resort, and their arrival makes the collection of wild and domestic animals at Norumbega park higher than ever.

The program of vaudeville in the Rustic theatre this week, every afternoon and evening, is drawing crowded attendances in the immense outdoor auditorium. The New York Vaudeville stars constitute this week's entertainment, and next week there is an entire change of program, the attraction being the Alhambra Novelty company. The mysterious Chalea has something new in the way of mystifying illusions each week. This week the special feature has been the "Calliope," showing by illustration methods the French way of capital punishment. It creates lots of amusement, as indeed do all the illusions, while at the same time completely puzzling the observer. Starting with the trolley ride on the Commonwealth avenue street railway company's jumbo open electric, taking in the above features, and such additional attractions as the restaurant, roof garden, the boating and canoeing on the Charles, the merry-go-round, electric fountain, swings, casino, etc., one's visit to this popular resort is a highly interesting one.

DISCUSSION OF THE PLAY.

The opening was entirely due to the fact that this team was about ten tricks behind at that stage of the game. Although surprised at holding the trick, west promptly returned the suit in preference to opening any in his own hand. The false card by east at trick two did not affect the result.

East for the first seven tricks in the deal declared weakness in the north hand, and west, with the same information, was justified in finessing at trick four, which enabled him to pick up the queen of clubs at trick five.

West made an excellent play in leading the thirteenth club. Another discard could do north no possible good, while it might be of considerable advantage to the east hand, and with his own wretched holding in the remaining suits he preferred to have the next lead come from south.

But to the surprise of everybody at the table except the player in question, south was unable to trump the trick at all, and the nine of clubs held the trick, while east was enabled to discard his only remaining heart and ruff the king on the next round. For the first seven tricks in the deal the result for east and west was remarkable.

The North and South players made the maximum number of tricks possible out of the remaining six, allowing only the ace and jack of trumps to win against them.

West was unable to secure the lead in time to ruff his partner again on the heart suit. North played well at trick twelve in leading a losing trump, and enabling his partner to capture the thirteenth trick with the queen of hearts. Two tricks were gained in the deal.

The Twentieth Century.

The advent of the new century is to be commemorated by the Newton GRAPHIC in the publication of a handsomely bound volume, entitled, "Newton, The Garden City of the Commonwealth, 1874-1901." It will contain valuable and interesting historical matter, fully illustrated with half tone engravings of churches, schools, residences street views, parks, etc. The history will tell of leading events, characters and progress of the city, and the many advantages of Newton as a

THE APPLETON CASE.

The city has received deserved condemnation in the past for its failure to compensate Mr. W. S. Appleton for land taken for water supply purposes in 1889. In that year the city seized about 60 acres of the Appleton land adjoining the Charles river at Oak Hill, the taking being unknown to Mr. Appleton. The land was even taxed to him for 5 years after the seizure. In 1898 Mr. Appleton discovered that the land was claimed by the city, but as the three years' limit within which he could legally collect damages had expired, he apparently had no case against the city.

After negotiations to settle on an exorbitant basis had been refused by the city, his attorney began proceedings to test the constitutionality of the law under which the city had acted. The constitutionality of the law was upheld by the Supreme Court, and an attempt was then made to obtain legislative authority to enable a suit to be brought against the city. Much sympathy was expressed for Mr. Appleton by the legislators, but as it was late in the session, and as a general law, thought to cover the matter, was then being enacted, a special law was refused. This general law authorizes the city to surrender lands taken for public purposes, but as it is not deemed expedient by the city authorities to release our hold on the territory in question, it seems advisable to attempt a cash settlement of the matter. The city therefore offers to pay Mr. Appleton $100 an acre for the land taken; to return the taxes paid on the land after the seizure, and to allow Mr. Appleton such rights of access to the river, as may be designated by the water department.

As the land is mostly low meadow, and of little value except as river frontage, the settlement appears to be perfectly fair, and whether accepted or not, relieves the city of the odium of taking land without an offer of compensation.

THE UPPER FALLS SITUATION.

The indignation meeting of the citizens of the Upper Falls over the refusal of the school board to grant their requests in the matter of school teachers, appears to be but a flash in the pan, so far as direct results are concerned. The only possible remedy seems to be at the polls next fall. A committee to keep the flame of public indignation alive, and with ability to bring it to a white heat at the municipal conventions next November, seems to be about the extent of present action.

In this connection it seems pertinent to call attention to the inadequate methods of securing public opinion under the present methods of convention nominations. We have always stood for direct nominations by the people for all elective offices, and peculiarly so for municipal offices. At the present time, the delegates elected at the municipal caucuses, nominate a mayor, aldermen at large and members of the school committee.

In this way it is impossible to secure a direct expression of the voters on a single issue like that for school committee, as the preferences of some voters over the majority and of others for aldermen, may and often do outweigh their choice for the school board.

There should be separate conventions for the aldermanic and school board nominations, and we suggest that a proper work for our Upper Falls friends would be along this line, in order that when the time does arrive, the school question can be settled on its merits, and without possible aldermanic complications.

FLAG DAY.

The city is to be congratulated on the opportunity to celebrate Flag Day by a public reception to Gen. Joseph Wheeler, who has so recently proved his faithfulness to the stars and stripes. Let everyone take the occasion to show that there is now no North, no South, no East and no West, but one united country and one glorious flag.

As appropriation of $35,500 for adding another section to the covered reservoir, passed the aldermen last Monday, without debate.

Such an action shows the confidence of the board in the administration of the water department, a confidence which is endorsed by the entire city.

Gov. Crane creates a dangerous precedent in attempting to dictate to the legislature as to what they shall or shall not do. With men in the governor's chair who are not so worthy to wear the title of His Excellency as W. Murray Crane, the matter would become serious.

Smith-Nye.

A very pretty church wedding was solemnized in the Methodist Episcopal church at Fairhaven Tuesday noon, when Franklin Elmer Smith of Newton was married, in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends, to Annie May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Nye of that town. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. E. Ellis, pastor of the church. The large audience room of the church was beautifully decorated with potted plants, flowers, and green. The altar was banked with palms and Easter lilies, and palms were arranged around the organ loft at the foot of the room where the orchestra was stationed.

To the strains of the wedding march the bridal procession entered from the rear, the ushers preceding. They were followed by the maid of honor, Miss Estelle Jackson, Fairhaven, and the bridesmaid, accompanied by her father. They were met at the altar by the groom and best man, Henry L. Smith of New Bedford, cousin of the groom, where the ceremony was performed, the bride being given away by her father.

The bride was attired in white crepe de chine trimmed with point lace and wore a veil with orange blossoms. She carried a large bouquet of blue roses. Miss Jackson wore white organdie over blue silk and a picture hat and carried a bunch of white carnations.

The ushers were Henry W. Wellington of Boston, E. Bert Johnson of Worcester, Harold E. Reynolds of Fairhaven and Robert C. Sherman of New Bedford, a cousin of the bride.

At the conclusion of the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, 41 Middle street. Mr. and Mrs. Smith sailed on the Cestrian for the Leyland line, Wednesday for a three months' bridal trip to Europe, and upon their return will take up their residence at 56 Fairmont avenue.

Traveller's Club.

The Traveller's club whose unique entertainment is noted in another column has enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Wm. Pierce of Boylston street, whose pleasant house and beautiful estates of many acres of park like woods, with its picturesque cliffs and boulders, at Eliot Heights, have rendered it a most interesting club to give many elaborate and unusual entertainments. One of which was a play written by a member of the club and acted upon the stage by the members of the club. The beauty of these woods, which extend a long distance bordering on Boylston street, and their accessibility, combined with a certain amount of agreeable retirement, suggested the idea of using them as a setting for the play. A spot was selected which seemed formed by nature for this special purpose, and the occasion will long be remembered by the many friends of the Traveller's club who witnessed it.

Mr. Bullard and Mr. Dana voted against the Saunders referendum amendment to the Washington street subway bill, both voted in favor of the defeated amendment to limit the lease to 33 years, and both voted against passing the bill to a third reading.

Camp for Boys.

An important question which confronts parents at the end of the school year is how to arrange for the boys a vacation which shall be a help to him physically, mentally and morally. This question has been answered to the satisfaction of hundreds in the growth and development of summer camps.

A camp conducted by a refined gentleman, used to the care of boys, who appreciates their life and overcomes animal spirits, yet with decision, who can see the best there is in a boy and appeal to it; can do a boy an inestimable amount of good in eight weeks. A boy will return home vigorous in mind and body, free from nervousness and full of determination to do the best there is in him.

If he is backward in any branch of school work an hour a day will make him strong where he is weak.

An outdoor life, free from conventionalities, with sailing, golf and other games, sleeping in regular army officers' tents, good wholesome food and regular habits, will lift and strengthen and vigor into the body and prepare it for the strain of the rest of the year.

Mr. J. F. Scully of 17 Oxford road, Newton Centre, has a camp on Eagle Island, Penobscot Bay, where he takes a limited number of boys for eight weeks, leaving Boston, July 5. This is the fifth season. He will be pleased to hear of boys in doubt as to how to spend their vacation.

A reception followed. After a trip, Mr. and Mrs. Higgins will live at Washington and Auburn streets, West Newton.

Death of Mrs. Johnson.

Louise Baldwin, wife of Earl Hunt Johnson, born in Peterson, N. J., Feb. 24, 1872, died in Tolland, Conn., June 8, 1901.

This announcement will come as a sad surprise to her many friends in Newton and elsewhere. "Bright and beautiful" were the expressive words of one who knew her. She had lately come from her home in Chicago, to spend the summer with her mother, and was to return in the autumn to reside in Minneapolis.

Caring for her child in illness, with diphtheria, she herself contracted the disease, and passed away leaving the little boy and a bereaved husband, to whom the most hearty sympathy of all his friends is extended.

As a resident of the Newtons, a member of Eliot church she will be remembered for the sunny life she imparted to all about her. On Monday last, a perfect day in June, amid the full bloom and beauty of nature, she was laid to rest in Newton cemetery where a brief service was held by her former pastor Rev. H. J. Patrick.

Woodland Park Hotel.

A large and enthusiastic hearts card party was held in the hotel parlors on Monday evening, June 10th. Miss Helen Hayes was the ball room and beauty of the evening. The prize was won by Mr. Thomas the second, Mr. C. H. Hunt the first gentleman's prize and Mr. Dana Thomas the second.

A LIGHT IN THE YARD

MRS. GALLUP RECOGNIZES IN IT HER SUMMONS TO HEAVEN.

But She Fails to Get Any Information From Her Husband as to the Manner in Which She Should Act When She Enters Her Home Among the Angels.

(Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.)

When Mr. Gallup sat down for the evening, he had his newspaper on his knee and Mrs. Gallup was singing "Rock of Ages" and clearing away the supper table. He had been reading for a quarter of an hour when she quietly entered and sat down and said:

"Samuel, I don't want to disturb you nor make you feel bad, but I feel obliged to ask you a few questions. Last night at midnight Mrs. Watkins saw a light moving around in our back yard. It was a light which bobbed up and down, and when it finally went out it gave a great wink and a splutter. It was what they call a ghost lantern, Samuel, and it meant that there would be death in this house within a week. It'll be my death, of course. I've got 27 different ailments, with heart disease thrown in, while you are as healthy as a cornfield. Yes; it'll be me, but I'm not weeping over it. I'm sitting right here as calm as catnip, but I want to know some few things."

Mr. Gallup must have known of her presence, but he was too deeply interested in his paper to recognize it. He had found an article which said that a bedbug could be boiled in water for four hours and then come out with his ambition undaunted.

"I shall go to heaven when I die, of course," continued Mrs. Gallup as her voice broke a little. "I order go there. Any woman who has whitewashed the cellar every spring for 27 years, besides making soft soap, cutting carpet rags, dyeing over old clothes and making one corset last her for 13 years, will go to heaven on the jump. What bothers

"I'm sitting right here as calm as catnip," me, however, is how I'm going to act after I get there. You know how company allus frustrates me. If three or four of the neighbors come in, I'm all most sure to fall off my cheer or knock over sunthin. How's it goin to be when I get up there and meet a bull pasture full of angels? There'll be millions of 'em, Samuel, and they'll all be lookin at me and wonderin who I am, and I'll be so upset that I'll fall over my own feet."

"She paused to wipe the tears from her eyes with the palm of her hand, but as she had asked no direct questions Mr. Gallup finished the bug article and turned to one on the care of clotheslines."

"I don't want to be looked at and p'inted out and made fun of up there," said Mrs. Gallup as she sat with her eyes on the carpet. "All night long last night I couldn't sleep for thinkin that some of the angels would turn up their noses at me and want to know what on earth I was doin there. You remember Sarah Jane Bixby, who died two years ago? Sarah was snippy and sassy. If she went to heaven, it would be jest her way to want to know why I'd come flyin up there, with my rheumatiz and back aches. I'd have to sass her back, and then what would happen? Angels do sass each other sometimes, don't they, Samuel?"

"If Mr. Gallup had ever given the matter a thought, he was too busy to discuss it. The statement was right before his eyes that 1,000,000 miles of clothesline went to destruction every year for want of being hung up in the wood shed when not in use, and he was reflecting on the carelessness of humanity in general."

"I may get up to heaven in the night, when all the angels are asleep, and so I'll slip in all right. I hope that'll be the way, because it'll give me a chance to kind of get used to the place before daylight. Go you think they have any breakfast up there? Mrs. Watkins says they don't, but I don't really see how they get along without it. I know I should feel a goodness all day without breakfast. And I want you to look at me, Samuel, and see if I'm the humblest woman ever born. I have read that when we die we are changed as in the twinkling of an eye. I hope it's so. If it ain't, then I can't expect no good times up there. Them angels will be p'intin out my lop shoulder, my big feet and my wabby knees and whisper to each other that I'd better staid down on earth among the cabbages. Nobody as knows me can call me obstinate or sot, but I'll be snuffed if I propose to die and become an angel to be made fun of. You'll be on my side about that, won't you?"

Mr. Gallup heaved a long sigh and seemed about to speak, but no word came. He had finished with the clothesline and struck an article about the reasoning powers of the crow, and the most direct question from Mrs. Gallup would have passed unheeded. Her tears fell for two or three minutes, and then she asked:

"And how about the beds up there?"

You know we've slept on a feather bed ever since we was married, and I've allus bin particular to smooth it down from head to foot. I've got used to feathers, and if I changed off I'd jest lay there and kick around all night long. Do they hev beds, Samuel, or do they keep on flyin around all night long and singin "I've Reached My Home at Last?" Seems to me that flyin and singin all day would be enough unless I feel stronger than I do now. You orter know these things, Samuel, and you orter tell me so I'll know what to depend on. I might stand sass from a thousand angels, but I do want my own bed when night comes, and if one of my headaches comes on unexpectedly I want to know that I kin hev a cup of tea. Mrs. Watkins says they don't drink tea in heaven, but I don't see how she kin know."

Mr. Gallup was not directly appealed to, and as he was reading that a crow had been known to feign death to avoid having a crowbar thrown at him he made no sign.

"Waal, I've made up my mind to a few things," said Mrs. Gallup as the silence grew painful. "I'm goin up to heaven to do the best I kin. I'll be mayburly with all the angels I meet and let 'em understand that I don't want no more'n my share of harps and wings and things. If I don't find anything to eat or any beds to sleep on, I shan't raise no fuss nor go into hysterics, the way Mrs. Taylor did at camp meetin last year. Yes; I'll put up with things as I find 'em and make the best of it, and I won't be jealous if a few of 'em hev better clothes on or kin sing better'n me. That's how I'll act, Samuel, and then if they pick on me they'll give as good as they give. I kin be sassid and picked on jest so far, but arter that they want to look out. Would it put you out any, Samuel, if I died at night instead of in the daytime? As I said, if I died at night I could slip into heaven without any fuss, but if it's goin to make you any extra trouble I'll perish by daylight. What will be the most convenient hour for you?"

There was deep silence. Mrs. Gallup's tears made no thud as they fell upon the carpet, and Mr. Gallup was reading with bated breath that an ostrich covers 13 feet of ground at every stride when in full flight. The clock ticked, the silence grew deeper, and the cricket on the hearth fell into a doze. Then Mr. Gallup suddenly laid aside his paper, stretched his arms and legs, with a "Ho-hum!" and looked around to find Mrs. Gallup asleep in her chair. She hadn't gone to join the angels—not yet.

THE KING OF HANDCUFFS.

How Harry Houdini, American, Surprised the British.

When Harry Houdini, the American king of handcuffs, arrived in England, he tried to arrange for an exhibit of his skill at Scotland Yard, but the authorities refused to allow him an opportunity of putting on or taking off official handcuffs, says London M. A. P. So, accompanied by a skeptical London manager, he paid an ordinary call as an American visitor to the police headquarters. Mr. Houdini, after making the usual remarks on everything he saw and heard, casually asked a question about a pair of handcuffs. The guide took them down and answered:

"Oh, these are handcuffs impossible to remove."

Houdini was greatly interested, and the incident closed by the American visitor requesting his guide to lock the handcuffs on his wrists. Then he turned his back and succeeded in getting them off in a couple of minutes.

One of Houdini's strangest adventures happened at a big hotel in St. Paul, Minn., where he was very well known. To his surprise, he found that a couple of men occupying the rooms on either side of his own appeared to be mounting guard over him. At first he only suspected this, but after a few days he was perfectly sure that one or the other of his neighbors shadowed his every movement. One afternoon, when Houdini was sitting in his own room, he heard the sound of scuffling outside the door. Flinging it open, he discovered his two unknown friends grasping a third man, who had evidently been wearing a long dark cape that was dragged on one side, showing that he was heavily handcuffed.

"We're a couple of detectives, Mr. Houdini," panted one of the men. "This fellow made his escape from jail some days ago. We knew that he wouldn't dare to go to a locksmith to get his handcuffs removed, and we suspected that he might come to you."

Sunday Habits.

The average man does himself so much harm on Sunday that he does not recover until the following Wednesday. In the first place, he loafs around the house, instead of being active, as on weekdays. In the next place, he eats his breakfast later than usual, and his dinner earlier, and the result is that he is knocked out until Wednesday. The best thing to do on Sunday is to conform to your usual habits as much as possible.—Atchison Globe.

A man has no more right to say an unkind thing than to act one, no more right to say a rude thing to another than to knock him down.

The first time a man is appointed on a "committee" he is very apt to think his position a very important one.—Atchison Globe.

A LONDON CRIMINAL.

THE FOG THIEF AND HOW HE PLIES HIS PECULIAR TRADE.

He Operates Boldly Both in the City and on the Thames—Carries Off His Plunder From Vans and Cabs Shrouded in the Dense Gloom.

Thousands of thieves long for fog with a great longing. Incredible as it may seem, property worth tens of thousands of pounds is every year stolen from vans and lorries alone in London streets. Quite nine-tenths of this property disappears during fogs.

The leaders of the fog thief gangs usually have some little capital to start with. One of them affects to be a cartage contractor on a small scale. He takes very quiet premises that have a high boarding round and that are not overlooked. If he has plenty of cellarage, all the better. He has at least one smart trap and horse and two and sometimes three rogues to go with it.

It is during the late foggy afternoons and early evenings of winter that the hauls are made. Streets with warehouses—and not shops that are lighted brilliantly and early—on each side and that are often congested with traffic are mostly chosen. The small and smart though dingy and inconspicuous looking trap plunges into the thick of the traffic. It soon, in the gloom and murk, places itself immediately behind a van or lorry piled with packages of various kinds.

The men in the quick trap are all on the alert. One of them, a man chosen for his immense physical strength, goes to the head of the pony on some pretext. He soon has a package down from the van in front. He is provided with sharp cutting instruments, and he has a powerful piece of strap with a hook at one end. If there is a boy sitting behind the van, the men in the trap contrive to get him down by diverting his attention. Even with a view to distracting the possible attention of carters, the thieves generally get up an altercation, or "barney," among themselves or with others. They are men of colossal impudence and powers of abuse, and all attention becomes riveted upon them. In one case not far from Farringdon street last December they carried off one parcel of furs worth £700, the van boy being temporarily blinded, as alleged, by a lad with the thieves blowing some snuff into his face from a pea shooter and then disappearing.

One of the most notorious of these fog thieves was a lithe young fellow who crept along the back of a pony to its head, American jockey fashion, and hooked what he could from out of the van in front.

The great hauls of these men are when they follow cabs and private carriages from a railway station. In such cases they generally use two traps and horses. A cab is marked that has apparently valuable luggage on the top. This is followed till some dark street is reached where the way is narrow or congested; then the driver of one of the traps, that has a very swift pony harnessed to it, deliberately drives across the head of the cab or carriage horse.

Of course there is an angry altercation, and while this is going on the thieves on the other trap have got into the immediate rear of the luggage-laden vehicle. One of the thieves goes along his horse's back and lifts the luggage down.

One of the hauls effected last winter in this way was worth £8,000 and was the property of Mr. de Silva, an Argentine millionaire. The robbery took place not far from St. Pancras' church just before the shops were lighted up.

As the summer sun brings forth myriads of living creatures, so does a Thames fog bring out upon the dark and apparently deserted river a vast horde of thieves. At least a dozen of the wharf and lighter owners complain of losing from their respective wharves as much as from one to six hundred pounds' worth of coal alone every year.

The reader can learn at any riverside house frequented by tugboat men that there are scores, literally scores, of tugs on the river that have never bought a pennyworth of coal for great numbers of years. The Thames police would tell that same reader that men have retired on competences who have been reported to have made their whole fortune out of coal stolen with impunity on the river.

The police are helpless over the vast expanse of river and the labyrinthine backwaters. If they raid one of the pirate boats in the gloom and darkness, the spoil is turned out to the bottom of the river in a trice. If this sort of thing can be done to such an extent with a commodity like coal, it may be imagined what befalls other valuable property on wharves or in lighters.

The fraudulent picker up of the river blesses the fog. The picker up is a man who notices that certain barges with valuable cargoes are moored in such a way that, if they broke loose, they would entail vast expense. The picker up sees that these barges do break loose. That part of his work he does in dead secret. And then, making plenty of noise about it at this stage, he rescues from danger the very barges that he has set adrift and sends in a heavy salvage claim.—London Answers.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, June 10th, 1901. President McKinley is only seeing those of his callers who have important public business to discuss, owing to Mrs. McKinley's continued critical condition. She is not worse than she has been at any time since her return to Washington, but then neither is she perceptibly better. It is this barely holding her own that is alarming in such a case as hers. Members of the cabinet are doing everything in their power to relieve President McKinley of the routine executive work, by only calling his personal attention to the most important matters.

Senator Pritchard, of North Carolina, who is in Washington on official business, said of the McLaurin-Tillman mix-up in South Carolina: "The fight is between democrats, and I have nothing to do with it, but there is a strong sympathy for Senator McLaurin among business men and manufacturers of our section, who are democrats. They believe that he represents their interests and the best interests of the South. I am willing to make this prediction, however,—both North and South Carolina, will soon be in the republican column and the day is not far distant when that will take place. Other Southern states are leaning that way, too." Senator McLaurin is also in Washington. He expresses absolute confidence that a majority of the South Carolina voters will endorse his position.

Representative Mercer, of Nebraska, hopes that Attorney General Knox will not take advantage of the authority he has to make a contract for the erection of the new building for the department of justice, because he considers the site, on Pennsylvania avenue, entirely too small and the appropriation available inadequate for the erection of a suitable building. He said on the subject: "I believe that any Federal building in Washington, should be large, imposing and commodious, built for the future and not for the present. Our forefathers showed splendid judgment when they planned the Capitol White House and Treasury. There's the Congressional library. It has been admired by thousands. We ought to erect another building for the Supreme court and the department of justice near the library. The city hall of Philadelphia has cost $21,000,000 so far, and the state house at Albany, $16,000,000, but neither is admired as much as the Congressional library, which cost a little over $6,000,000. The small amount of money appropriated for the new building of the department of justice, will not erect much of a building. It certainly will not make a showing on the small piece of ground owned by the department. I like to see big buildings in spacious grounds. The people are willing to pay for them and that ought to be sufficient."

Secretary Long headed off a scheme of some real estate speculators, who have acquired the land that will be needed for the establishment of the naval station, on Pearl harbor, Hawaii, and have been holding it at extortionate prices. By instructing the commandant of the naval station at Honolulu, to consult with the United States District Attorney there, in regard to the government in securing the needed land at Pearl harbor. By the same statement, at the request of Secretary Long, orders from Attorney General Knox went to the U. S. district attorney, to take the necessary steps before July 1, to condemn the land needed for the naval station. This alertness will convince those speculators that Uncle Sam is not always an easy mark.

Discussion of Representative Babcock's idea of removing the tariff from all products of the steel trust, has brought out some interesting facts about the steel trust. It has been shown that big as the big trust is, it by no means controls the steel trade in this country, there being many establishments, some of them employing a large number of men, which have no connection with the trust. It seems to be generally admitted that the removal of the tariff on steel products would not injure the big trust to any marked extent, but it is claimed that it would necessitate an immediate reduction of wages in all steel establishments not in the trust. This claim, which is being made by those who ought to know whereof they speak, is causing many who were at first inclined to favor the removal of the tariff, to reconsider their wisdom, and it is substantiated by unprejudiced investigation, which a number of members of the house are quietly making, the bill for the repeal of the tariff on steel products will not be supported by a corporal's guard of republicans in either branch of Congress, at the coming session. Desirable as many consider it to curb the power of the big trusts, the republican party before July 1, to condemn the tariff on steel products would not injure the big trust to any marked extent, but it is claimed that it would necessitate an immediate reduction of wages in all steel establishments not in the trust. This claim, which is being made by those who ought to know whereof they speak, is causing many who were at first inclined to favor the removal of the tariff, to reconsider their wisdom, and it is substantiated by unprejudiced investigation, which a number of members of the house are quietly making, the bill for the repeal of the tariff on steel products will not be supported by a corporal's guard of republicans in either branch of Congress, at the coming session.

The Cuban Constitutional convention re-assembles today to consider Gen. Wood's communication notifying them that they must accept the Platt amendment unconditionally before they will be allowed to organize a government of their own. The latest advices indicate a disposition on the part of the Cuban delegates to be stubborn, and immediate action is not expected.

250th Anniversary.

The celebration of the 250th anniversary of the founding of So. Natick by John Elliot and his Praying Indians on the coming 4th of July is to be an occasion of more than local interest. As never before, John Elliot's work and project of enlightening and christianizing the red men instead of exterminating them as commonly practiced until recently, is coming to be appreciated as never before by the world at large. So it is that this principal village of the Praying Indians for 112 years, is to be the Mecca of many pilgrimages for the next few weeks.

The Eliot Association of America will hold its next national meeting here on the third of July and from three to five hundred of Eliot's descendants are expected and are to have to themselves the old village upon that day. On the 4th South Natick will be in readiness to welcome the multitude to its historical spots and to do extensive and unique program of the day.

GIFT OF $453.

Mr. Geo. A. Moore The Recipient.

Highlands Residents Honor Retiring Teacher.

Residents of Newton Highlands, upon hearing of the resignation of Mr. George A. Moore as master of the Hyde school, felt that such a term of service should be recognized by some fitting testimonial. A canvass of the community resulted in the raising of $453, which was sent to Mr. Moore by mail.

The following correspondence ensued:—
Mr. George A. Moore,
Newton Highlands, Mass.

Dear Sir:—It was with sincere regret that residents of Newton Highlands learned of your resignation as master of the Hyde school, and of your contemplated removal to a neighboring state, thus severing the pleasant relations which have existed between you and them for the past nineteen years.

Entering upon your labors in this village in September 1882, you have had an entire generation of its youth brought under your influence and instruction. During such a term of service, which we can most heartily testify has been one of faithful, earnest and efficient effort, ties of friendship and esteem have been formed, both on the part of parents and pupils, which will abide long.

Representing a committee of citizens, called together for the purpose of considering the matter of a testimonial befitting such a term of service, we have been our hands the enclosed check, as a manifestation of our esteem toward you by this community.

about 2 Monday afternoon when a horse
belonging to Joseph Lazzarotti, fruit dealer, ran away from the rear of Lancaster block.
The animal dashed across Centre street in-plunge he brought down the front and side plate glass windows. The frightened animal then turned about and started upon the library grounds. He was finally overpowered by several men, and the large crowds, which had been drawn by the noise of breaking glass returned to finish their sestas, for the excitement had ended.

The quietude which always marks a holiday in Newton was rudely disturbed about 2 Monday afternoon when a horse
belonging to Joseph Lazzarotti, fruit dealer,
ran away from the rear of Lancaster block.

plunge he brought down the front and side

mal then turned about and started upon the library grounds. He was finally overpowered by several men, and the large crowds, which had been drawn by the noise of breaking glass returned to finish
their sestas, for the excitement had ended.

TO BUFFALO,

Niagara Falls, and Pan
American Exposition.

Excursion Arrangements For Graphic Readers.

In fulfillment of our promise of last week, we have made arrangements, whereby our patrons and friends can visit the beautiful Pan American Exposition at Buffalo, without being imposed upon by extortion-ate and unscrupulous people.

Arrangements have been made for accommodations in a first class apartment house in the immediate district of Buffalo, within a few minutes' walk of the entrance to the grounds, at very reasonable rates.
Fine hotel accommodations may also be had in the heart of the city if desired.

A choice of railroad routes is also offered and we have no doubt but what we can suit the most economical and most fastidious tourist to the Exposition.

In addition to the attractions of the Exposition, excursions should be made to East Aurora, whose relation to Buffalo is similar to that of Newton to Boston. East Aurora, however, excels Newton in the fact that it contains two matters of interest, found nowhere else in the world. We refer to the celebrated covered mile track on the Jewett stock farm and the home of the Royercrofters, including the famous original Royercroft, Fra Elbertus Hubbard, as he is familiarly known to the lovers of good books in the United States. Full information may be obtained at the GRAPHIC office.

The Mothers' Rest.

It is a matter of interest to all the women of Newton that the "Mothers Rest" which was so successfully conducted last year by the ladies of the First Baptist church and their friends, is to be reopened this summer. The removal of the old Alms house made it necessary to secure a new home. This has now been accomplished, and a large house located on Winchester road, Newton Highlands, about five minutes walk from the end of the car line, has been leased and is nearly ready for occupancy.

The many gifts of last year provide furnishing and equipment in almost all departments, but carpets and rugs will be needed to make the rooms comfortable, and hammocks, toys and books for the ladies and children. Straw matting no longer of use in your home; strips of carpeting or partly worn rugs will be very useful; hammocks which you will not use on your summer outing and toys which your children have outgrown or laid away will be appreciated by these unfortunate sisters of ours and their little ones for whose rest and comfort we are planning.
The women whose interest and co-operation made this enterprise the means of bringing courage and hope into the hearts of many mothers whose only home is a stifling tenement in a crowded street of Boston, will, we are sure, be glad that the opportunity is to be given them again this year.

A postal sent to Mrs. A. C. Badger, 30
Chase street, Newton Centre, will bring an expressman to your house to take any gifts of this nature to the "Mothers' Rest," or articles may be left at the chapel of the Newton Centre Baptist church on Friday

Y. M. C. A. Convention.

The Y. M. C. A. World's Convention which opened in Boston, June 11, held its final meeting at the historic Plymouth Rock on Monday, June 17.

Canoe Meet.

At the annual meet of the Eastern Division of the American Canoe Association at Lawrence last Monday, the team representing the Wawbewawa Canoe Association carried away the majority of the honors, being first in nine races and second in the other four events of the paddling program.

The entry list was the best known in the history of the division, from five to eleven teams starting in most of the events.

The war canoe race, one mile straightaway, was very exciting, the Tatassits of Worcester sticking abreast the Wawbies until the last eighth of a mile, when the Goose and Crescent forged ahead of the Sunflower, winning by superior team work in 6 minutes 39.45 seconds.

The surprise of the day was in the single blade, single, when D. A. Johnson of the Wawbewawa defeated Bowie, the winner in 1898 and 1899, and French, last year's winner.

The events were as follows: Club four, single blade—Won by Wawbewawa, Medford second, Lawrence third. Tandem, double blade—Won by Innitow, Wawbewawa second, Medford third. Tandem, single blade—Won by Wawbewawa, Innitow second, Quinnaboquin third.

At the election of officers for the coming year, Francis J. Burrage of the Wawbies was elected Rear-Commodore of the Division.

The Twentieth Century.

The advent of the new century is to be commemorated by the Newton GRAPHIC in the publication of a handsomely bound volume, entitled, "Newton, The Garden City of the Commonwealth, 1874-1901." It will contain valuable and interesting historical matter, fully illustrated with half-tone engravings of churches, schools, residences, street views, parks, etc. The history will tell of leading events, characters and progress of the city, and the many advantages of Newton as a beautiful and desirable place of residence will be fully shown. The volume will also contain the portraits and biographies of representative men who, in their lives, their work or their influence have made Newton of today the garden city of the Commonwealth and of New England.

It is believed that such a work will commend itself to the citizens of Newton as bringing together a carefully collated record of the lives of men who have contributed to the welfare of our city; men of whom we are justly proud as educators, lawyers, physicians, clergymen and men of affairs.

Such a publication at this time will give to the present, an up to date account of the city and will bequeath to the future a legacy of what Newton was at the beginning of what promises to be a most remarkable century.

Gen. Sec. E. A. Lincoln, accompanied by Wm. E. Allen, of Springfield, supplied the pulpit of the Congregational and Methodist churches of Chatham, Mass., last Sunday and conducted union Evangelical services in the evening.

Newton Hospital.

The quarterly meeting of the Newton Hospital Trustees took place on the 12th inst., at the Hospital, with the President, Hon. J. R. Leeson in the chair, and members attending Mesdames Cobb, Gould, Leonard, Lodge, Lowell, Mason, Messrs. Bullens, Day, Hardy, Pettes, Pratt, Tyler, Doctors Hunt, May, Seales, Porter.

Owing to the recent fire, the meeting was somewhat earlier than usual and the reports largely verbal, pending in the case of the treasury, a formal one later in the month.

The executive committee reported various items of outside work and improvement under Mr. Tyler's supervision about completed. The new contagious ward of the city is practically done, and the furnishings ordered, so that an early occupancy may be expected.

In the Training school matters, Dr. May gave the progress of the new library, stating that about $175.00 had been donated by kind friends, part of which had been expended some standard works having been purchased as well as needed reference books, and two bookcases built in the lecture room, where the beginnings of the library are on view. Mention was made of the high average standing of the class just graduated, showing it to be not only the largest, but one of the best in point of excellence.

The principal business of the meeting was the question of replacing Thayer Ward destroyed by the fire of June 8th. After consideration of the subject, and examination of preliminary plans presented and explained by the architect, action was taken authorizing the executive committee to proceed with the erection of a new brick ward to replace the one burned. Some time was given to the discussion of details connected with the carrying out of this work, before adjournment.

Soldiers Return From Philippines.

Corp. William J. Henderson of Co. A. and Corp. John B. Ryan of Co. B., both of the 40th regiment, have returned to their Newton homes after nearly 22 months active service in the Philippine campaign. Corp. Henderson is a son of W. J. Henderson, the contractor, and Corp. Ryan lives at 138 Adams street.

Both young men declare they have no fault to find but believe they have profited by their experiences. They were stationed in the province of Cavite on the island of Luzon and had considerable to do in the way of skirmishes and guard duty.

Many Visitors to Upper Falls.

The popularity of the Metropolitan park commission's reservation, Hemlock Gorge, at Upper Falls was fully demonstrated last Monday when several thousand pioneers came out from Boston. The weather conditions and everything else was favorable and every one heartily enjoyed themselves. The groves make ideal picnic grounds and the river did its share towards adding to the pleasure. These churches were represented: Boston Ruggles St. Baptist, Boston People's temple, Boston Chardon St. Baptist and Somerville Highland avenue Congregational. Nearly a score of special electricies were employed conveying the crowds.

The July Delinctor.

Besides the host of good things which attract the attention of the ladies to the Delinctor, the July number contains numerous pages printed in colors. An interesting article on the Pan American Exposition is illustrated in color from the original sketches of C. Y. Turner, Director in Color to the Exposition.

Read It In His Newspaper.

George Schaub, a well known German citizen of New Lebanon, Ohio, is a constant reader of the Dayton Volkszeitung. He knows that this paper aims to advertise only the best in its columns, and when he saw Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised therein he knew he had to get it. He did not hesitate in buying a bottle of it for his wife, who for eight weeks had suffered with the most terrible pains in her back and legs, and he had a hard time getting her to use it. He said, "I feel as though born anew," and before using the entire contents of the bottle the unbearable pains had entirely vanished and she could again take up her household duties. He is very thankful and hopes that all suffering likewise will hear of her wonderful recovery. This valuable liniment is for sale by all druggists.

D. R.

Last Tuesday, Sarah Hull Chapter had its annual outing in a visit to the birthplace and home of Whittier. After a pleasant ride by steam cars and electric, the party arrived at the old homestead in East Haverhill, which old house was built in 1688, and has sheltered five generations of Whittiers. It is still a substantial and well-preserved building. The interior remains practically unchanged. After spending about an hour and a half at this place, the party took electric and enjoyed ride to Amesbury, where the visitors were met by a reception committee from the Josiah Bartlett Chapter, D. R., and conducted to the whittier home, to which he, with his mother, sister and aged aunt moved in 1836. The cottage was enlarged as Whittier prospered, and the principal room added is known as the "garden room." This was especially the poet's room, and remains nearly as he left it. Upon the walls hang the pictures of his friends—men and women distinguished for their literary or philanthropic work. The party was then taken to the headquarters of the Josiah Bartlett Chapter—the Macy-Coley house, where a box luncheon was enjoyed. The Macy-Coley house was built in 1634 by Thomas Macy, hero of Whittier's "Exiles," and through the generosity of the present owner the Josiah Bartlett Chapter has the use of it. The cemetery near by, where Whittier was buried in the autumn of 1892, was visited, and then the members of the Sarah Hull Chapter bade adieu to their entertainers whose cordial greetings and generous hospitality helped to make the day one of charm and profit.

VACATION FULL OF REST.

THAT'S WHAT A MIDSUMMER VISIT TO VERMONT PROMISES.

Vacation time is at hand and as usual there come columns of advice about the midsummer holiday. Good judgment would suggest a vacation in the country where city-bound men and women and city-bred boys and girls may have a chance to repair the waste of nerve and brain force that comes through strenuous living. Six hours or more by fast express trains will put the tired out, nerve exhausted Bostonian down in the very heart of the grandest vacation land in the east—Vermont. The beautiful state which boasts the glorious Green Mountains, Lake Champlain, Mt. Mansfield and a score of lesser attractions, not only surpasses all other sections in the beauty and variety of its scenery but in the healthfulness of its climate and in the opportunities it offers for the enjoyment of out door life. Indeed, to one who loves nature in the quiet and a sweet mood no corner of our land is more attractive. A beautiful illustrated book describing this charming summer country, "Among the Green Hills" together with a booklet on "Personally conducted tours to Buffalo," via the scenic Central Vermont route, Montreal and Niagara Falls, will be sent for 5 cent stamp. Address T. H. Hanley, N. E. P. A., Central Vermont Ry., 306 Washington street, Boston.

Police Paragraphs.

Patrolmen Conroy, Dalton, Tapply, Bates and Mills are the vacationists of the department from June 15 to 25.

Whist.

The following observations by Mr. L. M. Bouve the well worn repeating, and should be thoroughly learned by students of the game.

"Without attempting to compete with Vice President Torney's 'Whist Dents,' a few suggestions of a similar order perhaps may prove of some benefit to those who intend to take up the study of whist within the next few months.

It is barely possible that some players of more or less experience, not to mention those of team calibre, may profit by having their attention called to one or two points. Not that they need any 'brushing up' themselves, but simply that they better may be prepared to set a shilling example.

(A) Always count your hand before you play to the first trick.

That is something which even the persiprone to neglect, impressed itself upon the writer's mind most forcibly during a game of straight whist several years ago. Four skillful players, whom we will not name for personal reasons, had finished one deal and the odd trick had been scored to the credit of one pair. On the next deal, with a different pack of cards, the other pair took eleven tricks and won the game. Happening to put his hand in one of his pockets, the writer—one of the players pulled out the 7, 8, 9, 10 of spades belonging to the pack first used, which somehow had resolved itself into thirteen packets of four cards each. Passing over the error in scoring, which probably was due to imperfect alignment in the arrangement of the packets after they were gathered in, if certainly was embarrassing to each one of the four players, he thought that he had counted his hand, let alone the fact that he had not missed the four spades.

(B) Begin with learning the leads thoroughly.

After a game has begun one cannot ask his partner what he should lead from a certain combination, and it delays the game if it is necessary for a player continually to refer to some list that he may have prepared for that purpose.

(C) On the cards as they fall. If a beginner will cultivate the habit of repeating to himself the face value of the cards as they are played he will find that it will help him to remember. It is a pity that experienced players will not adopt this simple method of impressing the "drop" upon their memories. If they would do so it would relieve the necessity of asking to have the cards faced after they have been turned.

(D) Divide the work with partner. Not only does partner hold one-quarter of the pack, but he also does he anticipate having his share of the pleasure to be derived from the play. It is selfish, nothing more, to expect him always to sacrifice his hand to one's arbitrary demands.

(E) Endeavor to avoid mannerisms. Unconscious hesitation is very likely to influence partner, and cause loss, even though partner may not mean to permit himself to be swayed by such interference with his play.

(F) False cards may come in play during one's fiftieth year at the game; from the first to the fifth year at least, they are likely to prove a serious handicap.

(G) Go slowly in learning the rules. The same suggestion applies to the play. What is a game in which "haste is waste." How many leads "out of turn" are due to haste in play, which has been allowed to grow upon one!

(H) Hearsay is seldom a safe instructor for the beginner to follow.

Many whist writers suffer from inaccuracy in their quotations from their work, and are inclined to give large orders for Church Societies, What parties, Lodges, etc. I guarantee my Ice Cream what it is acknowledged to be.

(I) Indulge in a few experiments—none for some months at least.

(J) Jumping at conclusions is seldom judicious.

(K) Kings and queens, at the most, can take but their share of the tricks. The deuces and treys will need careful watching as soon as one has reached the proper stage in his training.

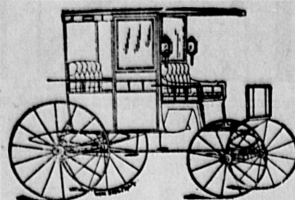

(L) Learn the laws of whist. Many tricks are lost by players whose lack of knowledge of the laws is only too evident.

Purse for Rev. Mr. Sullivan.

It was indeed a happy occasion that marked the tenth anniversary of Rev. Edward T. Sullivan's rectorship at Trinity Episcopal church, Newton Centre, last Friday evening. A most delightful reception under the direction of the Ladies' auxiliary was successfully conducted in honor of the event. The affair was held in the prettily decorated church parlors on Centre street and was largely attended.

The receiving party included Rev. Mr. Sullivan and Mrs. Florence Garrett, president of the auxiliary. The ushers were Messrs. H. Bartling, S. B. H. Bravo, I. H. Fitch, C. M. Merriam, F. H. Ratcliffe and J. H. Ide. Rev. Mr. Sullivan was the recipient of a substantial purse, and was informed that the church had voted to grant him a leave of absence for two months.

My little son had an attack of 'whooping cough' and was threatened with pneumonia, but for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy we would have had a serious time of it. It also saved him from several severe attacks of group.—J. J. STICKFADEN, editor of World Herald, Fair Haven, Wash. For sale by all druggists.

To cold and stormy weather opens the way to an attack of bronchitis. The man on the wagon, the farmer, the man or truckman, needs to pay special heed to the first symptoms of weakness or disease of the organs of respiration.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure bronchitis, deep-seated coughs, bleeding of the lungs, and other conditions which if neglected or unskillfully treated terminate fatally in consumption.

There is no alcohol in the "Discovery," and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and other narcotics.

"For seven years I had been troubled with what the doctors called bronchitis," writes Mr. Arthur Mantle (general merchant), of Niles-town, Middlesex Co., Ontario. "A year ago, after I had been taken sick with a severe attack, I began taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and I rapidly recovered from the attack and felt no more of it that fall. The season I began taking the 'Discovery' in August, and have so far been perfectly well. I can go out in all kinds of weather and not feel the bronchial trouble at all. Let me say to all who are suffering from such complaints to give Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery a fair trial, and I am convinced that good results will be obtained."

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Protest Against Congestion of Cars in Nonantum Square—Hammond Brook to be Widened.

City Laborers Would Like Half-Holiday for Summer.—Bath House at Upper Falls.—About Firemen's Days Off.

Alderman Hutchinson was the only member absent from the meeting of the board held last Tuesday evening.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM MAYOR.

Mayor Pickard transmitted a petition from Farrell et al., for a Saturday half holiday for laborers during the summer months. The matter was temporarily tabled.

His Honor also transmitted the petition of residents of Nonantum remonstrating against the proposed wood yard on Bridge street, and a hearing was assigned thereon for July 1st at 7:45 p. m.

City Engineer Farnham submitted a report and schedule of sewer assessments. The report was received, and later in the evening the order for assessment was adopted.

Mr. Daniel Dewey of the school board requested an additional appropriation to enable the board to purchase all its fuel during the summer months. Alderman Weed desired immediate consideration by the finance committee, but after more or less discussion and tabling for more information, the request for haste was withdrawn.

The request of the Boston & Worcester Street Railway Co. for still further amendments to its order of location in Boylston street, after being tabled was referred to the street railway committee.

PETITIONS.

A petition of Hibbard et al., that the use of Nonantum square as a terminal for cars of the Boston Elevated Railway Co. be prohibited, was referred to the committee on street railways, the company to be allowed an opportunity to meet the committee.

Petitions of Scott et al., for sewers in Norumbega road, of Shumway et al., for sewers in Forest street and of Russell et al., for sewers in Erie avenue, were referred to the sewer committee.

Petitions of Towle et al., for street lights on Grove street, of Hillings et al., for street lights on Church street, of Kait et al., for street lights on Austin street, of Crowell et al., for street lights on Needham street, of Pettie et al., for street lights on Tenney street, of Shumway et al., for street lights on Grove street, of Green et al., for street lights on Oak street, of G. W. Jackson for street lights on Ballard street, and of the N. & W. Gas Light Co., for locations on Marlboro and Elliot streets were referred to street light committee, hearings being assigned on the last two for June 28 at 7:45 p. m.

Petitions of Desoe et al., for laying out of Ware road, of Cook et al., for concrete gutters on Summer street, of Bernard Early for concrete gutters on Grove street, of Green et al., for sidewalk on Alden street, and of G. H. Mellen for a crosswalk on Walnut street, were referred to the highway committee.

A lengthy petition of Temperley et al., for a public bath house at Upper Falls was read and filed.

Petitions of C. E. Riley to move a building on Bellevue street of David Crory for 2 carrying licenses of S. W. Tucker for an auctioneer's license, of H. H. Tilton to manufacture, store and sell fire works, and of Gray & Frost for a common victualers' license were severally granted, the reference of the latter petition to the license committee being reconsidered.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

A petition of the Uncle Tom's Cabin Co to exhibit on Elm street, West Newton, and Richardson street, Newton, caused more or less discussion, and the chief of police was sent to see the place.

The chief could aid the board but little as to the petitioners, but suggested that the police officers needed should be paid for. A proposition to impose a condition requiring police protection brought forth an inquiry from Alderman Lyman as to what the police were to protect, and on his motion the license fee was fixed at $25, and the petition granted.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

The following reports were received: FINANCE.—Inexpedient on appropriation to grant firemen one day's absence in eight; favoring grant of $23,814.50 for city expenses to Sept. 15; approving appropriation of $500 for moving old Thompsonville school house; approving appropriation of $275 for safe in charity department; approving appropriation of $275 for bath house at Upper Falls.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.—(Majority). Recommending granting petition of firemen for one day leave of absence in eight. HIGHWAYS.—Favorable to sidewalk on Arlington street; favorable to crosswalks on Prospect avenue, Grove Hill avenue and Lawrence road; and recommending hearing July 1, on improvement of Hammond brook.

PUBLIC PROPERTY.—Recommending $500 for moving old Thompsonville school; recommending $275 for bath house at Upper Falls; and recommending $275 for safe in charity department.

SEWERS.—Favorable to sewer in Beacon street and recommending passage of orders relating to sewers in Virginia road and Hicks street.

STREET LIGHTS.—Favorable to granting Telephone Co. location on Channing street and attachments on Paul street and Woodland road, and to granting Gas Company attachments on Mill street.

The following reports were accepted: AUDITING.—Relative to bills for April and May.

HIGHWAYS.—No action necessary on improvement of Cranberry lane (not public street); no action necessary on sidewalk on Prospect avenue.

JOURNAL.—Approving records of board to date.

LICENSES.—Granting licenses to John A. Staples, common victualer; Sanderson & Polley, one bowling alley, one pool table; Celestino Boccarosa, street musician; Giuseppe Mazza, street musician; Bernardino Gaspari, wagon.

PUBLIC PROPERTY.—Inexpedient to present time on new sanitaries, Wade school.

STREET ORDINANCE.—The report of the highway committee, inexpedient on proposed change in ordinance relating to acceptance of streets was opposed by Alderman Wardwell in a lengthy speech, in which he argued that the city had gone too far in the severity of its conditions for acceptance of new streets. He believed that tax payers residing on unaccepted streets were paying to maintain streets paved with gold and studded with diamonds. He offered as a substitute, a proposed amendment allowing acceptance of streets, upon which houses had been built.

Alderman Lathrop stated that the highway committee had given the subject very careful attention. As there were some 300 unaccepted streets in the city it would be dangerous to change an ordinance which had worked fairly well.

Alderman Wardwell believed his amendment protected the city against land speculators and that present ordinance was unreasonable.

Alderman Saltonstall thought a change in ordinance would be detrimental to standard of streets.

Alderman Fisher desired a modification in the ordinance as he believed the condition of some unaccepted streets in the Nonantum district to be a disgrace. The present ordinance prohibits consideration of a street until it is improved.

After more or less desultory discussion the report of the highway committee was accepted.

APPLETON CASE.

Alderman Trowbridge had the board take from the table the order appropriating $5,000 for settlement of claim of W. S. Appleton and it was then adopted.

An order authorizing laying of water mains on Montvale road ($425), Nonantum street ($85), Somerset road ($340), Walker street ($130) and Walcott road ($375) was also adopted.

A meeting of the committee on military affairs.

Upon reassembling the following orders were adopted:—Authorizing sidewalk construction on Norumbega street; authorizing construction of crosswalks on Prospect avenue, Grove Hill avenue and Lawrence road; authorizing street watering on Jewett street and No. Prospect street; assigning hearing July 1, on improvement of Hammond brook; appropriating $500 for moving old Thompsonville school house; $275 for purchase of safe for charity dept.; $275 for bath house at Upper Falls; granting $23,814.50 for city expenses until September 15; taking land for sewer in Virginia road and Hicks street; authorizing sewer construction in Beacon street, Virginia road and Hicks street; granting N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co. location on Channing street and attachments on Paul street and Woodland road; granting N. & W. Gas Light company attachments on Mill street; relative to soldier's relief to Franklin D. Hill; and authorizing distribution of income of Read fund.

Alderman Hubbard offered an order for $275 to grant permanent firemen one day leave of absence in 10 after September 1, 1901, which was referred to the finance committee with instruction to hear the fire department committee when considered.

Proposed ordinances regulating blasting and building conditions for acceptance of streets were referred to the ordinance committee.

The matter of half holiday for laborers was taken from the table on motion of Alderman Lyman who urged immediate and favorable action. Mr. Lyman claimed that other city employees in fire, police and clerical force were granted some measure of time and he believed that the laborers would not be less satisfied.

Alderman Weeks opposed immediate action claiming it was good judgment to refer important matters to some committee for consideration. The matter was then referred to the finance committee.

And at 10:45 o'clock the board adjourned.

NORUMBEGA PARK.

All previous records for enormous attendances at Norumbega Park were smashed on June 17th, the opening day of this week's attractions at this popular resort. Bunker Hill Day is not supposed to be the best holiday in the season for Norumbega Park. Labor Day has always held the palm for the biggest attendance each year, but last Monday's turnstiles registered about 8000 more people than last Labor Day, making the total attendance last Monday over 25,000. This simply goes to show the ever increasing popularity of Norumbega. The general attendance this season has been far ahead of last year for the corresponding time.

One of the most remarkable features of the Norumbega season is the special entertainment of the vaudeville program which is presented there every afternoon and evening, yet the officers failed to discover a single case of disorderly conduct or disturbance of the peace during the season.

RECEPTION TO GEN. "JOE" WHEELER.

OBSERVANCE OF FLAG-DAY IN THIS CITY MADE NOTABLE BY A VISIT FROM THE FAMOUS SOUTHERNER—CHARLES WARD POST G. A. R. MEMBERS AS HOSTS.

Maj. Gen. Joseph Wheeler and his son must have been gratified at the reception given them in the city of their ancestors last Friday. Maj. Newton, as is well known, was the home of Gen. William Hull of revolutionary war fame, and this famous soldier was Gen. Wheeler's grandfather. But few knew of it until the popular southerner announced the fact himself.

Shortly before 4 last Friday afternoon the distinguished guest was met at city hall by Mayor Pickard and the city government, together with many city officials.

A driving party followed and carriages containing these gentlemen covered the principal streets: Gen. Wheeler, Adj. W. A. Wetherbee and Past Commander G. M. Fiske of Charles Ward Post 62, G. A. R., Maj. Wheeler, Hon. Gorham D. Gilman, Mayor Pickard, Hon. Henry E. Cobb, Samuel S. Whitney, Jesse C. Ivy, E. B. Haskell, C. S. Ensign and Alderman C. A. Trowbridge.

In the Newton clubhouse, Newtonville, at 6 o'clock an informal dinner was given the general and his son. About 14 were present.

There was a public reception at 8 in Temple hall, Newtonville. The affair was under the auspices of Charles Ward Post 62, G. A. R. and was largely attended.

Comrade George M. Fiske was presiding officer. He called attention to the anniversary of the adoption of the national colors and said that the reception upon such a date and of such a character was highly propitious.

The chairman then introduced Congressman William H. Powers, who was followed by Alderman Henry Bally, president of the board of aldermen, who represented the city in the absence of Mayor Pickard.

Gen. Wheeler, in the course of his address, told of his inspiration, which was felt by a visitor to Massachusetts. He referred to the important parts of his sons and daughters had in the revolutionary war, and spoke of the fact that more than 30 of his ancestors were buried within the bounds of the state.

He spoke of the world being made up of cycles, the greatest of which was the cycle of civilization. This, he said, had accomplished many wonderful things and that its powers were unlimited.

"American principles," he said, "when fastened upon a people are there to stay. We know there is a difference of opinion as to whether the constitution follows the flag, but there is none to deny that every American's heart follows the flag and the men who carry it to whatever portion of the globe it goes."

Other speakers were Hon. Gorham D. Gilman, Hon. Henry E. Cobb and Hon. Albert L. Harwood.

Gen. Wheeler held an informal reception in the quarters of Charles Ward Post and was assisted in receiving by his son. Later the former was elected an honorary member of the post.

Rev. Mr. Hudson Accepts Call to Channing Church.

The following letter of acceptance was read by Rev. J. C. Jaynes last Sunday morning at the Channing church:

147 Bryant St., Buffalo, N. Y., May 31st, 1901.

Messrs. Abraham Byfield and J. L. Caverly:—

Gentlemen—I had hoped before this time to be able to answer your letter of May 1st, notifying me of the call extended to me by the Channing Religious Society on April 20th, but the Church of Our Father has been slow in taking action on my resignation, and I have not been free to accept your call.

The meeting of the congregation on the 23rd inst. resulted in a request to me to withdraw my resignation and remain as the minister of the Buffalo church. On the following Sunday I announced from the pulpit my wish to adhere to my former decision. This wish they have finally accepted and I have accepted the invitation of the Buffalo church to become its minister. The missionary work which the association and I have jointly planned for this summer in Buffalo will be well along by September and I have no doubt that it will be entirely possible for me to commence my work in Newton on September 15th, as you have indicated, and it will give me pleasure to do so.

The confidence you have reposed in me and the co-operation you have pledged to my ministry among you. In the splendid work your churches are doing to promote the highest interests of society, so much depends upon confidence and co-operation between the pulpit and the pews, the pastor and the people that the spontaneous unanimity of your call has touched me very deeply. It gives me that your invitation is at once a summons to duty and a promise of worthy achievement which we may hope to realize together.

Cordially and Faithfully Yours,

ADOLPH L. HUDSON.

Mr. Jaynes then said: "I hope you will regard it as entirely fitting if I say this word to you this morning. I have no doubt that you will find the choice which this distinguished church has made. I have not the honor of a personal acquaintance with Mr. Hudson, but I have heard him speak a number of times, and I am familiar with the work which he has accomplished in Buffalo. And I can assure you that his work there has been of the very highest order and that you have every promise in the future of a most successful and continuous work."

Mr. Hudson then said: "I feel sure that I will receive a hearty welcome, not only from the church which has called him to be its pastor, but from the whole community, and I shall be one of the first to extend to him that welcome."

Literary Notes

The publishers of The Smart Set declare the July number of that magazine superior in many respects to all previous numbers, and the opinion is one in which readers will doubtless concur. There is not a heavy load of the 100 pages, but the number contains a wealth of material that is as exhilarating to the heated brain as a rolling ocean breeze. The literature of blood and of mud has no place in The Smart Set, but all its fiction is that of vivacious and enchanting character so hard to write, so easy to read, so rarely found in periodicals and so refreshingly enjoyable to the amusement-loving world. As a magazine of real entertainment, The Smart Set has no rival.

The number begins with a novelette by Molly Elliot Seawell, entitled "Papa Bouchard." Since "The Sorightly Romance of Marsac" Miss Seawell has written no such humorous and delightful story as this. Elizabeth Duer (Mrs. James G. King Duer) contributes an amusing story entitled "In Loco Parentis," descriptive of the adventures of a young society man who fathers an orphaned infant. Mrs. Sherwood writes of "Some English Princesses." Edgar Saltus entertainingly preaches the "Gospel of Gold," and Edgar Fawcett tells a strange story of duplicity and passion entitled "In a London Season." Julien Gordon (Mrs. Van Rensselaer Cruizer) has a little masterpiece of character study in "A Lost Line," and "According to Gibson" is a $100 prize story by Erin Graham. Other stories are "The Queen's Love," by Justus Miles Forman; "The Kisses of Arady," by Richard Wilsted; "Mrs. Matilda's Correspondent," by Jane Brewster Eddy; "A House Made of Cards," by Miriam Crook; "The Error of Her Ways," by May Austin Low; and "Paquita, the Dancer," by Mrs. Marquitta Bangs.

"HEAP SMELL."

The Indian Knew What He Wanted and Where to Get It.

Some Indians from Buffalo Bill's Wild West, arrayed in bright colored blankets and an exceptional amount of face paint, were taking in the sights of the city one afternoon. They strolled down Walnut street, single file, and, headed by a buck who now and then gave a grunt of satisfaction when something that pleased him caught his eye, they halted in front of a drug store and gazed at the window display for a moment. Then the band filed into the establishment and began to look around.

The clerk thought the place was going to be besieged and that he was likely to lose his scalp, but when the "big chief," who acted as spokesman, addressed him with the customary Indian greeting of "How!" the clerk regained his composure enough to ask the Indian what he wanted.

"Heap smell," was the reply. Directed by the Indian's finger to a showcase, the clerk produced a bar of soap. The brave took it gingerly, removed the wrapper, smelled it and bit into the toothsome looking article. With a deep grunt of displeasure he handed it back to the drug clerk. With a disgusted look he remarked, "Heap smell!"

The clerk began to tremble, and the Indian pointed to a perfume bottle in the showcase. The bottle of perfume was handed to him. The Indian held it in both hands for a moment, closely scrutinizing it. He slowly removed the stopper, closely watching it as if he expected it to explode, and took a long sniff at the bottle, gave a grunt of satisfaction, handed the clerk some money and led his band of braves out of the store, to the delight of the frightened clerk, who had not been in the practice of waiting on real Indians.—Kansas City Journal.

ANECDOTES OF FORREST.

Why the Confederate Leader Declined to Correct His Spelling.

"General Forrest of the Confederate army," said an ex-Confederate officer, "was a military genius of the first rank. Without previous training or any developed taste in that direction he went into the army from a place as overseer and attained commanding rank absolutely by merit. Rough and uncouth at first, he became in later life a courtly gentleman whom it was a pleasure to meet and to know. I remember on one occasion some time after the war coming up the Potomac with him I wanted to introduce a young woman who was under my escort. He said he was flattered by the request, but that he could not meet her unless she knew perfectly well who he was and that he was not held in high esteem by the northern people chiefly on account of the Fort Pillow affair. I assured him that she was fully apprised of his record, and then he went with me to meet her, and she told me later she had never met a more attractive man.

"Earlier in his career—that is, before he had learned to spell—he was asked by a young lady to put his autograph in her album. He wrote his name as requested and under it his title, 'major general of calvary,' as he spelled it. The lady called his attention to it in a very delicate way, and he looked at it a moment, and with a full consciousness that he was lacking in that regard and with a beautiful and scarcely to be expected humility he said, 'Let it stand to show how ignorant General Forrest is.' There are not many men who would have done that, I imagine, and it was the little things that showed the man's true greatness."—New York Sun.

"As Mad as a Hatter."

Probably very few persons who frequently use the expression "As mad as a hatter" have any idea as to what it means or why a hatter is necessarily any more subject to fits of anger than a plumber, a blacksmith or a carpenter. The expression is said to have come into use half a century ago, when the manufacture of hats was done wholly by hand. The most striking thing about the process was that of the beating up of the process. The hatter first dipped the mass of wool and hair frequently into hot water; then, seizing a stick in each hand, he belabored the mass most vigorously, stopping now and then to get his breath, until the material was matted together in a rough sort of felt. The lively beating administered to the felt, as if the workman were actually incensed, gave rise to the familiar simile.

An Uneven Contest.

"They had a lively boxing match at Splinter's the other night."

"How was that?"

"Splinter came home late, and as he passed through the hall his wife's tallest palm touched him on the cheek. Splinter was in an excited condition and thought it was somebody's fingers."

So he struck out wildly with both fists and succeeded in knocking over two palms and severely bumping his own head."

"But why do you call it a boxing match?"

THE STREET ORDINANCE.

Considerable debate has been caused by recent efforts to amend the ordinance governing the acceptance of streets. The propositions to modify our present excellent but stringent conditions, come from two entirely different sources, both of which have some arguments in their favor.

The first is based on the commendable desire to have certain unaccepted streets in thickly settled districts, whose present condition is a disgrace to the city, put in such shape that the city may legally care for and bring them up to the high standard of all our public streets. The conditions which prevent the acceptance under the present ordinances, which require a certain width, proper drains and catch basins, etc., cannot be complied with by the abutters for varying reasons, and as the streets are as much used and are to all intents and purposes, except care by the street department, public streets, a tenable plea may be made for some modification of the ordinance in their behalf.

On the other hand, the demand for change comes from abutters on streets, where if drainage is put in, there will be no outlet for the same. Under these conditions the abutters feel that they have good cause to protest against the investment of money in drains, which can be of no possible value, until the city provides an outlet.

The questions raised by the advocates for modification appeal with some force to all fair minded people, and the problem has been thoroughly considered by the Highway Committee, whose recent report of inexpedient to amend the ordinance is disappointing to many. The committee, however, does not believe it judicious, to let down the bars for the few cases where the conditions are burdensome, and to thereby open the way for streets whose acceptance would prove expensive for the city.

All of the 300 and more unaccepted streets have some argument in favor of acceptance and any modification of the conditions would be an entering wedge for a gradual deterioration of our present standard.

Attention.

The District Council of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, desire to make the following statement relative to their demand for an eight hour work day with nine hours pay, that the public may be correctly informed of the present situation and the circumstances leading up to it. They desire to disprove the erroneous idea which has gone abroad that undue advantage was taken of the builders, by non sufficient notice of the intention to demand a shorter day.

In January 1900, a letter setting forth our desires was sent to the builders. The many reasons for the adoption of an eight hour day were explained in detail and attention was called to the fact that it was in successful operation in more than 150 cities and recognized by the national and state governments. Two answers were received. Mr. H. H. Hunt favored an eight hour day but considered it inexpedient at that time. Mr. L. W. Crow was in favor of it at any time. In November 1900 a second letter to which no answers were received, was sent. This was followed by a petition to the builders, asking for the shorter day on and after January 1, 1901. Eight refused to sign. After failing several times to obtain their signatures, a meeting was called to which the builders were invited to look into our demand. Mr. H. H. Hunt alone attended. A second visit to the builders resulting in a personal promise from their part to attend, another meeting was called at which Messrs. C. F. Jones and W. A. McMullen were present. Finding no reliance could be placed in the promises of the builders a third letter was sent on May 27, 1901 to all the builders of Newton, Watertown and Waltham, demanding eight hours on and after June 1. On this date, those men to whom it was not granted quit work. Headquarters were established at Newtonville, and many of the men have been placed on eight hour jobs. No communication has since been received from the builders. Eighty per cent. of the carpenters are now at work at eight hours, with no reduction of pay, and the contractors who have given in speak strongly in favor of the shorter day. The movement means moral betterment and material success for the men. It is hoped that this statement of fact will enable the public to obtain a correct knowledge of the differences between the builders and the men.

Police Paragraphs.

There has been commanding much attention this week a case of reported poisoning, the principal of which is "Dorothy Rowe." In several of its features it seems to suggest a Sherlock Holmes narrative, but many knowing ones who listen to theories advanced reply only with an incredulous smile. The facts are that the police ambulances were called to the house 218 Central street, Auburndale, on Tuesday and from there took a young woman to the hospital. The police blotter said "She took 6 percent carbolic acid with suicidal intent." Next day she was discharged from the hospital at perfectly well. Reporters made an investigation on their own account, for the police and hospital authorities would have nothing to say. The newspaper men found out that at 218 Central street there resides Helena F. Lamson, widow of Charles M. Lamson, Chas. E. Lamson, student, and Marion H. Lamson, teacher. They also ascertained that the young woman had been treated in the Emergency hospital on Monday for supposed carbolic acid poisoning self-administered. As the Lamson family would have nothing to say and the police and hospital authorities would not talk, more than a dozen theories were offered by Boston newspapers. A little explanation, rather than a vast amount of reticence, would have served to set matters aright before the public in a short time. This was not forthcoming, however, from the friends of the young woman. The most probable of all "deductions" is that the young woman's name was not "Dorothy Rowe," that she never took carbolic acid, and that she was the leading lady of the heroine of a romance in every day life, who introduced the "Poison act," as a little emotional play with the hospital as a stage setting and the police for "supers."

An Ideal Resort.

The new Rockmere Inn at Marblehead, which is shown in another column, is the only hotel on the town side of the harbor, adjoining water. The cuisine is the best and all the appointments are first class. The Inn is especially adapted for unaccompanied families. Cottages on the grounds if greater seclusion is desired. From personal acquaintance with the locality and the proprietor, we can heartily commend its attractiveness to Newton people.

At The Churches.

Rev. Everett D. Burr preached a baccalaureate sermon to the young people of the First Baptist church, Newton Centre, who are school graduates this year, last Sunday evening. His theme was, "A life vision."

H. Davis, the superintendent with the teachers were in charge and games were enjoyed. Later bargees conveyed the company to the Elliot chapel where a supper was served.

A largely attended children's day service was held last Sunday morning at the Universalist church, Newtonville. The program consisted of solos by Miss Katherine Hutchinson of Boston, christening of children, a short sermon by the pastor, the subject being, "The Good Shepherd." Bibles were presented to 12 year old children.

The Olivette as Fleet-Footed as Ever.

The Olivette of the Plant Line surprised everybody by coming into Boston, Thursday, ahead of time, notwithstanding she left Halifax three quarters of an hour late. Passengers were coming ashore half an hour before she was scheduled to arrive. This ship was always noted for her speed, and in being rebuilt seems to have lost none of her old time vigor. She is planned very much like the Grand Duchess, with the exception that her staterooms and dining-saloon are above the water line, and all have windows instead of port holes. She leaves Boston every Thursday for Halifax, Hawkesbury and Charlottetown.

She leaves Boston every Thursday for Halifax, Hawkesbury and Charlottetown.

The Olivette as Fleet-Footed as Ever.

The Olivette of the Plant Line surprised everybody by coming into Boston, Thursday, ahead of time, notwithstanding she left Halifax three quarters of an hour late. Passengers were coming ashore half an hour before she was scheduled to arrive. This ship was always noted for her speed, and in being rebuilt seems to have lost none of her old time vigor. She is planned very much like the Grand Duchess, with the exception that her staterooms and dining-saloon are above the water line, and all have windows instead of port holes. She leaves Boston every Thursday for Halifax, Hawkesbury and Charlottetown.

Newton Choral Association.

At the close of its first season, the Newton Choral Association presents to the readers of the GRAPHIC a few interesting facts concerning the season's work. The chorus has lasted throughout the season and is on a basis that insures long life. Then again it has raised $617.35 during the year, given two concerts, both successful, with eight first class soloists.

When the rehearsals began in October, 1900, there were 74 names enrolled as active members. Since that time, a few have withdrawn, and a few joined, so that at the close of the season there is a chorus membership of 81.

Already 35 applications have been received for active membership next year, we may expect to have a chorus of about 125 voices.

The management feel very much gratified by the actual success of the association as indicated in a marked degree by the many compliments that have been paid the association by musical critics outside of Newton, and by the number of applications already received for membership.

On the fourth of June the chorus repeated the first concert at Waltham even in a more successful manner than in Newton. To quote from a Waltham paper, "The Newton Choral Association is composed of good singers, and their direction given by Mr. Everett E. Truette has been careful. Their graduation of tone, their breathing, and their attention to the conductor in matters of detail, were noticeable. It is gratifying to see the pleasure these singers take in the tasks presented to them, and to note the pleasure which membership brings to gentlemen advanced in years."

The board of directors, realizing that the success already attained has been due almost entirely to the able work of the conductor, Mr. Truette, assisted by Miss Henry as pianist, takes pleasure in announcing the fact that they have engaged them for another season, and that the rehearsals will begin on the 14th of October, the examinations for new members taking place the first of the month.

TESTING THE SEEDS.

EXPERIMENTS TO BE MADE AT THE PAN-AMERICAN.

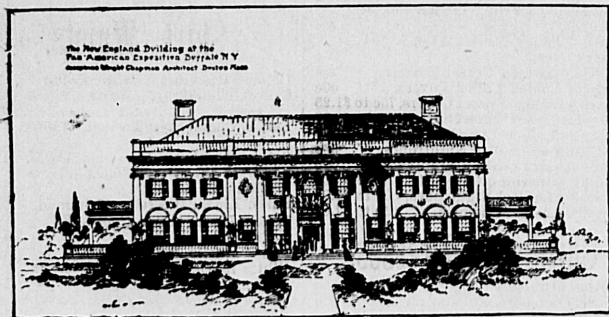

Exhibit of the Division of Botany of the United States Department of Agriculture Will Deeply Interest the Agriculturists.

The progressive agriculturist will be interested in the exhibit of the Division of Botany of the United States Department of Agriculture at the Pan-American Exposition, as it relates to one of the essentials of his calling. The exhibit will be restricted to only one of the numerous lines of work conducted by the Division of Botany—namely, pure seed investigations. It will represent the work of the Seed Laboratory at the Department of Agriculture, where samples of all seeds distributed by the Government are now carefully tested for purity, germinability, and freedom from seeds of noxious weeds.

Thousands of samples from farmers and seedsmen in all parts of the country are also tested at this laboratory. The work is of special interest to farmers, gardeners, seedsmen and experimental station workers, to whom the subject of pure seeds is of vital importance.

The Seed Laboratory of the Department of Agriculture is well recognized as the most important seed testing station in America. Its methods, standards and most important pieces of apparatus have been adopted for seed testing at many of the State Experiment stations. The methods now in use and many of the instruments and larger pieces of apparatus have been devised and perfected by the men in charge to meet the necessities of the work.

On entering the space devoted to this exhibit at the left of the main aisle one sees first in a glass case a purity separating table with magnifying glass, forceps and other tools used by experts in separating a sample of commercial seed into its component parts of pure seed, chaff, sand and other foreign matter and weed seeds. Next is a pair of fine balances on which samples are weighed, all percentages in seed purity tests being based upon weight. Beyond the scales is a new combined mixer and sampler. In this a quantity of seeds is quickly mixed and a sample of the desired amount delivered which will fairly represent the entire lot. One of the most attractive pieces of apparatus used in purity testing is the blast impurity separator, which is also a new device. The air blast is furnished by a modern blower driven by an electric motor. The device itself, however, in which the separation of chaff and lighter impurities from seed is performed through the action of an air current, consists of a simple bent glass tube connected with a receiver.

Actual germination tests will be carried on at the Exposition as in the Seed Laboratory at Washington. Commercial seeds will be counted, arranged in folded blue blotters, moistened and placed in the standard germinating chamber, where they will be kept at fixed temperatures favorable to germination. Check germination tests, such as are employed in conducting tests with many kinds of seeds, will be made in sterilized sand and soil in greenhouse "flats." The number germinating each day for a definite period in each of the tests will be noted, and the percentage of germination thus computed.

Many weeds the seeds of which are most frequently found as impurities in commercial seeds are represented by living plants labeled with the names by which they should be designated by English speaking people wherever found. A unique feature is an exhibit of seeds of many of these weeds and also several kinds of commercial seeds arranged under 40 magnifying glasses accompanied by seeds of the same kinds in open dishes, so that one may readily compare the magnified impression with the actual seed and note differences and distinctive characters that would not appear to the unaided eye.

The results and importance of seed testing are graphically represented by several groups of glass tubes containing different kinds of commercial seeds. These show the ordinary commercial seed, the amount of pure seed true to name in the sample and the amount of inert matter, such as chaff, sticks and sand, the proportion of weed seeds, and finally the amount of germinable seeds true to name, as determined by test of similar sample and the proportion of waste. A comparison of these last two indicates how much is often paid for waste in buying untested and poorly cleaned seeds. Commercial seed growing is shown by photographic illustrations of some of the largest seed farms in California, where the production of garden seeds has reached its highest development in this country.

GAYETY AND GLADNESS.

Great Abundance on the Pan-American Midway.

The Midway of the Pan-American Exposition will have the choicest of the world's amusement novelties. A visit to the different concessions will seem like a peep into foreign countries, the representation of life will be so true. There will be a Trip to the Moon, Beautiful Orient, Colorado Gold Mine, Glass Factory, Scenic Railway and Rivers, Captive Balloon, Darkness and Dawn, Dreamland, War Cyclorama, Around the World, Turpin's Panopticon, Bostock's Wild Animal Show, Old Plantation, Cleopatra, Cineograph, Jerusalem on the Morning of the Crucifixion, Diving Elks, Indian Congress, Old Nuremberg, Infant Incubator, Osttrich Farm, Venice in America, Moving Pictures, Thompson's Aero-Cycle, Roitair's House Upside Down, Johnston Flood, Hawaiian Volcano and Theater, Streets of Mexico, Miniature White City, Miniature Railway, Gypsy Camp and Filipino, African, Japanese and Eskimo Villages.

The Midway covers an area of more than 40 acres. The cost of building it was $3,000,000. The amusement palaces are set close together, and the long intervening distances which have wearied pleasure seekers on other Midways will be agreeably lacking here. The concessions have a frontage of something over a mile. More than 50,000 incandescent lamps will be used in the illumination of this amusement quarter. There will be 2,000 lights upon the Thompson Aero-Cycle, which will be operated by Niagara Falls power. Such a tempting amusement feast as has been provided for visitors to this Exposition has never before been seen. The wonderful Midway of the Pan-American Twentieth Century celebration is the culmination of colossal amusement enterprise.

CUBA AT THE EXPOSITION.

A Splendid Exhibit of Its Resources to Be Made at the Pan-American.

The diversified and valuable resources of Cuba will be exhibited at the Pan-American Exposition.

A Cuban building has been erected in the Court of State and Foreign Buildings, and it is one of the most picturesque of this fine group. Its architecture and materials are peculiar to the island. The building is surrounded by the traditional "Tower of Havana" and attracts the attention of all visitors. It has a splendid view of the Park Lakes, The Approach, The Fore Court, The Triumphal Bridge and other parts of the Exposition.

Among its nearest neighbors is the Honduras building, which overlooks

The Approach. The work of gathering the exhibits is in progress. An active campaign is being made throughout the island, and especially among the planters, for exhibits. While careful attention will be devoted to the collection of exhibits to represent the manufacturing interests of Cuba, the bulk of the exhibits will come from the country and will be collected so as to serve as inducements to those with limited capital who may desire to invest in Cuba. The exhibits will be the best ever collected in the island and will entirely be representative of its industries.

New England Building.

The New England building in the Court of State and Foreign Buildings at the Pan-American Exposition reminds one of a fine old colonial mansion. Its broad piazzas and terraces are typical of a New England home of the Revolutionary period. The design is plain, yet rich. The building is 104 feet long by 52 feet wide. The walls are covered with staff, painted to represent red brick with white marble trimmings. The shields of the six New England States are placed in colors on the front, and there is a staff for each state flag. On the ground floor is a large reception hall, nearly 47 feet square, supported by four columns, and at the rear are colonial staircases leading in two directions from the first landing. On the right of the reception hall are the bureau of information, the courtroom and custodian's quarters. On the left are lounging and writing rooms, from which a beautiful view of that section of the Exposition is possible. In both these rooms large colonial fireplaces are arranged, and the furnishings are all in accordance with the colonial idea. The arrangement on this floor is simple, thoroughly convenient and without decided keeping with what the building will be used for. Up stairs there have been arranged six large rooms. Each New England State is allotted one, and it is used for a rendezvous for people from that particular state.

This building is located on a street, or path, connecting directly with the Grand Court and is in almost as central a position as the New York State building. It is near the lake, in the midst of over 10,000 transplanted shrubs and trees. The cost of the New England building was $15,000.

"UNDER THE SUN."

The men who have gone before us
Have sung the songs of life,
The words of our clamorous chorus,
They were heard of the ancient king.

The chords of the lyre that thrill us,
They were struck in the years gone by,
And the arrows of death that kill us
Are found where our fathers lie.

The vanity sung of the preacher
Is vanity still today;
The moan of the stricken creature
Has rung in the woods away.

But the songs are worth re-seeing,
With the change of no single note,
And the spoken words are ringing
As they rang in the years remote.

—Charles R. Bacon in Century.

WHAT MODERN SAILORS FEAR

Not Winds and Seas, but an Explosion Which Scuttles the Ship.

"Boiler explosions are the terror of the seafaring man," said an old time deep water captain. "Such a thing is bad enough on dry land, but imagine a catastrophe of that kind at sea. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred it means the absolute wiping out of the craft itself and every soul on board. 'The average landsman would be greatly shocked in looking over the maritime records to see how many vessels disappear each year and leave absolutely no clew to their fate. They run well up to the hundred mark, and such a mystery is not to be explained away by storms. A Chinese typhoon may swoop down like lightning out of a clear sky and tear a ship to pieces, but some floating wreckage is sure to tell the tale. A boiler explosion, on the contrary, will blow a hole as big as a railroad tunnel right through the center of the hull, and the stricken vessel simply goes down like a shot. There is no time to unfasten a boat from the davits or cut loose a spar.

"In the opinion of seamen, that is the story of at least 90 per cent of the ships that leave port and are never heard of again. Luckily the modern system of marine boiler inspection is extremely strict and thorough, but it is impossible to absolutely prevent carelessness and fraud, and often enough, no doubt, the fault lies with the engineer.

"There is an old story of a drunken Scotchman who mistook the thermometer for the steam gage and 'cussed out' the stokers because he couldn't get the pressure above 80. That yarn will hardly hold water, but I've seen cases almost as bad. I am glad to say, however, that during the past 10 years there has been a steady diminution of the number of vessels which 'mysteriously disappear.' That is due, beyond all question, to the increased stringency of boiler inspection and the greater strictness of examinations before a license is issued to engineers. Nevertheless there is still considerable room for improvement in both branches."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Russell and His Songs.

The late Henry Russell, the veteran English composer of "Cheer, Boys, Cheer," and of more than 800 other songs which were popular in their day, had many amusing experiences when he sang his ballads on various occasions.

Once, after rendering "Woodman, Spare That Tree," a gentleman rose in the gallery and asked, "Was the tree spared?" On being answered in the affirmative he, with a sigh of heartfelt relief, exclaimed, "Thank God for that!"

After singing the song of "The Dog Carlo," who jumped off an Atlantic liner and saved a child's life, Russell was gravely waited upon by a couple of Yorkshire miners, who begged him for a pup.

One of Russell's songs, of which the words were changed in accordance with the altered conditions, is our national anthem, "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean."—Argonaut.

Wanted to Go to One of His Weddings.

The Rev. Dr. —, a prominent clergyman, relates with much gusto the following story about himself. His present wife, by the way, is not the wife of his youth nor yet of his early manhood, but the lady of his third choice, and as a consequence the doctor's set of olive branches spring from divers maternal ancestry.

"Such a condition of affairs," said the doctor, "might at times become embarrassing except for the thorough amiability of all concerned. I confess, however, to a slightly disconcerted feeling when shortly before my third marriage I was approached by one of my daughters, a girl of 9 and one who called my second wife mother, with the question: 'Papa, will you let me go to see you married? I have never been at any of your weddings.'—Fun.

State House Letter.

(Special to the Graphic.)

Boston, June 19, 1901.

The weeks proceedings began with a holiday, and on Tuesday the real business was reached through the receipt of the governor's message vetoing the bill to provide for a subway through Washington street. The governor put his arguments in a very convincing way, and took the wind out of the sails of his opponents by spending very little time indeed over the question of a referendum, and devoting most of his plea to pointing out other ways in which he felt the legislation failed to come up to the standard which such a measure should reach. He reminded the members of the House that the subway bill of 1894 contained a referendum clause; that in giving a 40-year lease of the subway based on the proposition that it would cost $6,000,000, the legislature was presenting the company with eight years occupancy of the structure without rental as the present rental on the Tremont street subway, 47 1/2 per cent, would pay for the structure in at least 33 years, probably in 32. He also pointed out weaknesses in the bill as to the section providing for the removal of conduits and wires of electrical companies which were not new ones to the friends of the measure, who would hardly have inserted a provision inserting the rights of the electric companies could it have been done without sending it back to the House where the whole question of the merits of the bill might have been reopened. The governor pointedly inquired what would have been the effect of a lease of any such structure to a Boston company 40 years ago.

Those who recall that 40 years ago street railroad in Boston was in its infancy, but that various small companies were developing lines radiating from South Bay square into the suburbs, can easily see what it might have meant to have given a single company the rights which the subway bill gave to the elevated.

A crushing argument was made by the governor when he showed that the result of the bill would be to give the elevated company the right to use $6,000,000 worth of stock, not to say any property it would come into possession of, but simply to pay rent. This, he alleged to be completely at variance with the policy of the commonwealth against stock watering and he further clinched the argument by saying that while the bill permitted a company to establish a sinking fund, it did not provide for the proceeds of that fund, which would be used to pay for the subway. Lawyers might see holes in this argument but most laymen could not.

All these arguments must have been of great interest to Mr. J. R. Carter and others who have taken so strong a stand against the subway bill in the form in which it passed through the general court. The bill as it is to be extended to the city has happened that the subway bill was not recalled from the hands of the governor and amended into such shape as to permit him to sign it. There can be but one reasonable explanation, and that is, that the company could have a 40-year lease, meaning practically a 40-year franchise, it preferred there should be no subway built at all. The sustaining of the veto will postpone the matter for a year and will practically certain that there will be no relief from the congested conditions on Washington street but rather an increase in the traffic. It is, of course, the whole fight will have to be renewed, but it should be renewed on a different basis.

An effort was made to get the Senate to agree once more to a joint committee to discuss the anti-stock watering laws as a condition for by Newton gentlemen, but the Senate was obdurate, and rejected the order. Then Mr. Lucie of Somerville offered an order for the House committee as had been anticipated. Yesterday Mr. Cullen of Boston offered an order for an opinion from the attorney general as to the legality of a House committee to do this recess work. There have been House committees on anti-stock watering laws, but carried on by one House or another is not unusual at all. The famous Lexow investigation in New York a few years since was made by a committee of the Senate and there is no good reason why one of our legislative branches can not order a similar committee in Massachusetts. The order was marked for defeat however, as it might stir up "branch jealousy" with the Senate.

The Hopkinton water bill has gone through, and a few days ago another bill to provide for conveyance of damages was substituted for the adverse action of the water and meter committee of the House through the efforts of Mr. Walsh of Clinton. It provides that the metropolitan water district shall pay a sum of money to the city of Boston for the loss of the water and meter compensation for the loss of numbers who insured, but who have moved away from West Boylston because of the building of the Washington Reservoir. This bill has been pending for a number of years, but has never reached the Governor. The chances are that within 48 hours the general court of 1901 will have been pronounced. A few small matters have remained on the calendar to cause discussion.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

BOSTON MUSIC HALL, VAUDEVILLE.—A sensation, fresh from European triumphs, will head the program at Boston Music Hall next week, giving place to the best vaudeville entertainment that Boston has ever seen. This is Everhart, the "king of hoopla artists." Everhart comes almost direct from the London Follies where his juggling and jugglery was a feature, and where royalty and nobility alike went to amaze over his dexterity. There will be hosts of other attractive features in next week's bill, especially Louise Montrose, who has such success with her acrobatic songs and dances during the past fortnight. Then there will be another welcome return—Paulette and the beautiful Floral Song Sheet, which made such an instantaneous triumph only a fortnight ago. All the pretty maidens will be present and the vocal solos will be given by a soprano of special prominence in Boston musical circles. Others of special attractiveness are Loris and Alina, the European sharpshooters in a sensational act given for the first time in Boston. The Solistes, novelty dancers, with their five dusky Archipelagoans, Claudius and Corbin, who play classical music on the banjo—and other music too; Fred Brown, the dancing monologist; the Broadway Trio, including various E. tella Mills, Jerome and Alexis, in their novel contortion act; Fox and Foxie, the funny clown and his dog, the Brothers Rossi, clever acrobatic comedians, Lottie, Freeman and her clever pickaninny, Mac Naughton and MacNiven in songs and dances, Berol and Berol, in their pantomime "The Artist and the Ragpicker," and new views on American Vitaphone.

You may as well expect to run a steam engine without water as to find an active, energetic man with a torpid liver and you may know that his liver is torpid when he does not relish his food or feels dull and languid after eating, often has headache and sometimes dizziness. For sale by all druggists.

At The Churches.

Rev. John Goddard will speak on Sunday morning at the Church of the New Jerusalem, Highland Avenue, Newtonville, on "The Secret of God." Communion will follow the morning service.

One of the committee rooms in the vestry of the Immanuel Baptist church, Newton, has been taken for the use of the Sunday school. Necessary alterations have been made and several new books have been placed on the shelves. Mr. Clarence V. Moore is the librarian.

The various Unitarian churches of Newton were well represented at the South Middlesex conference held in the Unitarian church, Waverley, Wednesday. The topic of "Hopeful aspects of my work" was considered by several ministers at both the morning and afternoon sessions.

The debt of $3000 on the Methodist church at Auburndale which has been in existence since the building was erected in 1857 will probably be canceled before the new year. The pastor Rev. W. T. Worth has succeeded in securing subscriptions the total being adequate to cancel all claims against the building.

Mr. Thomas Weston, one of the deacons of the Unitarian church, was the delegate at the annual meeting of the First Church of Christ in Cambridge for the ordination of Prof. Platten and Ropes of the Harvard Divinity school.

The Newton Methodist church has accepted the invitation of the Immanuel Baptist church to hold Union services for six weeks of the summer season. The detailed arrangements will soon be completed.

The following are the names of the little children who were baptized at the Unitarian church, on children's Sunday morning: William Hemmings Adams, Norton Herman Chappel, Kathleen Cobb and Grace Louise Franklin.

A union meeting of the Woman's Board auxiliary with the Methodist Woman's Foreign Missionary society was held Tuesday afternoon at the Auburndale Congregational church.

An interesting and well attended meeting of the Ladies Aid societies of this district was held at the Newtonville Methodist church last Tuesday afternoon.

Rev. Frank S. C. Wicks of Brighton will preach at Channing church, Newton, Sunday morning at 10.30. All are welcome.

A procession of children was held at the Church of the Sacred Heart, Newton Centre, last Sunday morning. A solemn high mass was celebrated at 10.30, and solemn vespers were held at 7.30 in the evening.

The Sunday school connected with the Unitarian church at Newton Centre will have the last in the series of lessons on the general title, "Noble Lives and Deeds," next Sunday. The special topic will be, "Power of the Will," illustration, "Mucius Scaevola."

The proceeds of the recent lawn party held at the Epworth League of the Newton Methodist church were $70.00.

CUT 10 CENTS.

Price of Gas To Be $1.15
in Newton.

Gas Commissioners' Decision
Has Come.

The long awaited and much delayed decision of the board of gas and electric light commissioners upon the petition of the city and numerous citizens for cheaper and better gas and electricity was announced last Monday in the usual form of a recommendation to the N. & W. Gas Light company.
The decision reviews the petition and hearing and recites the history of the company, stating that the output of gas is less than most districts of equal population, and that about 75 per cent. of its electric output is for street lighting.

The evidence at the hearing substantiated the complaints of irregularities in electric service and unevenness or failure of pressure for both gas and electricity, but which the board says is due to insufficient generating power at the station and carry-power of its lines, and also in part, to failure of the management to remedy temporary troubles with reasonable promptness. The board deems, however, that to fully remove causes of criticism would require a liberal expenditure for extraordinary repairs and new charges. The prices of materials have since been subject to a considerable advance, while that of residu-als has declined. Notwithstanding these facts, however, the board says that a somewhat lower rate will probably permit the maintenance of the present dividend and amply provide for depreciation or contingencies, along with the maintenance of the best service to the public. To such a reduction the consumers are entitled.

The board therefore recommends that from and after the first day in July next, the net price charged for gas by the Newton & Watertown Gas Light company shall not exceed $1.15 per thousand feet.

In compliance with the above recommendation we are authorized to announce that on and after July 1st the rate for gas charged by the N. & W. Gas Light company will be $1.30 per thousand feet, with 15 cents reduction for payments made before the fifteenth of the month following the date of bills.

CHILDHOOD.

Words of Rev. F. S. C.
Wicks of Brighton.

Spoken at Channing Church
Last Sunday.

Train up a child in the way he should go, and even when he is old he will not depart from it. Proverb XXII.6.

When one thinks of all that childhood promises; of the wondrous possibilities that stretch out before it; of the interesting phases of its development; of all the wealth of soul it may achieve; of the beauty and nobleness and usefulness that may enter into its life, how fascinating becomes the study of childhood. I do not wonder that the most enthusiastic among educators are those who come the nearest to the children, the kindergartners.

But only Faith and Love are privileged to see all this. It takes faith and love and patience to view child nature in this ideal way: to look beyond bud to coming fruit. A faith that can work without sight; that can see beyond the discouraging actualities; a love that can compel persistence, and a patience that can work while the signs of promise are few.

One cannot watch the painter at his canvas without wishing he possessed the talent to transfix beauty and give it permanence; cannot see the shapeless clay growing into symmetry and beauty without wishing he, too, shared that creative power; cannot listen to the orator taking dead words and making them live and glow without wishing his own lips might be touched with the ovals of eloquence.

But these things demand genius and few possess it. Yet a higher power is within our reach. We can bring to symmetry and beauty a human life; we can fashion, as in clay, human character; we can utter words that are as light and warm to growing human nature.

Canvases! Clay! Words! What are these to the plastic elements of the human soul? A great writer who devoted his life to one gigantic work, and to his own surprise, brought it at last to a successful end, sadly observed, that among the congratulations that poured in upon him from every side, he could not help feeling that he had analyzed his own emotions, how tepid was the satisfaction which such a triumph could give him, and what much more vivid gratification he had come to take in the mere process of creating.

I am not saying it is as easy to mould human nature as clay. It is the hardest thing in the world. But it does not demand genius. Only qualities within reach of all of us: faith, hope, love and patience. I lay it down as a duty resting upon each one of us that we ought to be doing something to bring to blossom and fruition a young life. Not simply the duty of parents. That goes without saying. But the duty of the child as well. Why is it that the single life is so often unlovely, sour, self-centered? Because so often it is the loveless life, and God hath ordained that the loveless life shall be empty of satisfactions. Let the childless man or woman put love into some child's life and see it grow into growing manhood and womanhood, and then learn the charm of life.

What can we do for the children? I shall indicate three ways our energies may take. In the first place, we can take advantage of the earliest instinct but one; imitiveness. According to many psychologists, all the acts of childhood are either imitations of superiors, or practices upon inferior. Of what use has been learned of superiors? I am convinced that people are too ready to put down many childish traits as hereditary, which are, in fact, due to imitiveness. The wisest words upon taking advantage of this instinct come to us from Plato, "Parents should so reverence a child that they will do nothing they should not want him to repeat."

The strongest influence, then, which we can exert is that of example. Much example and little precept. Don't preach to a child. Be what you wish him to be.

I have known many who have had the naughty child whip them. That may be where the punishment belongs. The fault of the child may be but a miniature repetition of the fault of elders. If the father or mother be ill-disciplined, he will take low views of life and duty, what wonder the child is of like disposition.

Fathers, mothers, those who associate with children have a fine vantage ground in the child's imitative reverence for elders. They are as Gods to the children. The father is the wisest, strongest and best man in the world. The child can understand God only when he is called Father. The mother is the best and most beautiful woman in the world. The friend is a very wonderful person. One of the greatest shocks in life is when this childish delusion gives way, and the child learns that parents and friends are imperfect. This shock may be softened if we keep in mind this ideal the child forms of us, and do our best to live up to it.

The first lesson of childhood is obedience. It cannot begin too early. There should not be a moment's relaxation in demanding it; no wavering in insistences. It must be secured at any price.

The modern idea that a child should be brought up by love and not fear. A splendid idea, but how often it means, a child does as he pleases; a tyrant in the home, a nuisance in the school, a terror in the neighborhood. There seems to be a widespread fear a child's will will be broken. The fact is, the period which has produced the finest types of spiritual, self-reliant manhood was a time when the father was an autocrat, his will the law; discipline was severe, and often harsh, and the whip always within easy reach. I hope those days are over, never to return, but better they should return than that a child should be ruined by laxity and indulgence.

The boy or girl who enters maturity without having formed the habit of obedience is terribly handicapped. They enter a world where obedience is the first demand. They must obey the laws of nature, the slightest infraction of which entails punishment; they must obey the laws of their country to enjoy the rights and privileges of citizenship; they must obey the laws of society to be respected; they must obey the laws of business to gain commercial success and honor. The child who has learned obedience in the home is prepared for all this. The child that has learned to reverence authority at home, will reverence authority beyond the home. As David Harum said, "Every house o'n do a thing better n' s'perry if he's broke to it as a colt."

The child cannot understand the value or necessity of obedience. In the beginning the will of the parent should be as the will of God, obeyed without question. This has a corresponding obligation for those who care for the young. They must know the sacredness of obedience themselves. They must obey in turn, what seems to them the laws of God. They must reverence an authority above themselves. Then they will demand only what is right and reasonable. A child has a very keen sense of what is right and reasonable, and will rebel when treated unjustly or unreasonably.

For every yearly new subscriber to this paper at $2, paid in advance, fifty votes will be given to the pupil designated by the subscriber. Such new subscriptions must be from persons not now upon our lists, or receiving the paper regularly from our agents, the newsdealers, and changes from one member to another of the same family, for the obvious purpose of gaining the fifty votes, cannot be permitted.

A chapter might be written on the cruelty of parental love. If a parent should cut off the arm of a child, the act would compel horror. Yet parents send out children maimed in soul, deformed in character. Their love makes for weakness, and the children are ill-disciplined, lack self-reliance, and are bound to suffer and fail.

Last of all, children should be brought up in an atmosphere of faith. Faith in the possibilities of childhood is the best stimulant to endeavor. Expect nothing, and you get nothing; expect much and you get much. Emily Poulsson tells us, "What we expect, we help to bring about." She says we must ignore handicaps in children. A deaf child, spoken to as if he heard, grows to understand. And so with the blind, the feeble-minded, the otherwise defective, the handicap must be ignored.

Have faith that the child can be brave, good, truth-telling, honest; show that you expect the best, and you will stand the best chance of getting it. But do not expect the best too soon. The quicker any creature arrives at maturity the more inferior it is. In the prolongation of its infancy, John Ruskin finds the reason of man's superiority. Unfortunates, the child that matures too early; unfortunately the child whose parents love to show it off, cramming its poor little brain with things beyond its normal capacity. Pre-natal children rarely make well-balanced men.

Natural development is slow. The first years should be devoted to making the child a good animal. The animal propensities are not to be checked, but guided. All the stages in the evolution of the race must be traversed. All that we can do is to assist the progress and make gentle the transitions. The danger is to be averted by stopping at any one of these stages. Not one must be overlooked. If the small boy shows signs of early sainthood, or the girl is more interested in heaven and angels than earth and friends, something is the matter. Take them to a physician. This does not mean that a child is to be left to drift along, bumping first on this rock, then on that. He is to be led away from a purely animal state as soon as possible. There must always be a held before him an ideal just a little ahead of him. Beware of an ideal so high as to discourage hope of attainment. Beginning naturally as selfish, he must be led gently ahead until the ethical sense is completely established.

I have purposely kept the discouragements out of the background. They are many. Again and again your faith is tried; again and again your best-meant efforts fail; again and again a robust child kicks to pieces your finest theories. But isn't the result worth it? They are discouraged? Child nature is full of surprises. That is one of its charms. You never know what is going to happen. At any moment, all you have worked for, is likely to happen. You can never tell when the most unpromising child will reward your efforts.

The worker among children must put resolutely to one side, the expectation of immediate results, and work on and on, leaving the results to God.

If we would do the best work, we must have the faith that we are working with God. Unseen forces are working with us, supplementing our best endeavor, correcting our mistakes. Those forces make for good. All that we can do is to so train a child that he can take advantage of his heredity and by obedience to the laws of God, achieve the best in life.

The subject for the Endeavor meeting at the First church last Sunday evening was Temperance. A brief, stirring address was given by Rev. Wm. H. Cobb, D. D., an honorary member of the Society.

The last meeting preceding the summer recess will be the consecration meeting next Sunday evening, at which time a special effort is being made to have a response to every name called, personal if possible, otherwise by a message.

The subject of the Endeavor meeting at the Newton Highlands Congregational church for June 30, is "Whatever I will strive to do whatever He would like to have me do." John 15: 7-16; Matt. 28: 18-20.

The subject of the Pilgrim Society of Christian Endeavor, connected with the Newtonville M. E. church, for June 30, will be by Mr. Robinson. The subject is "Whatever I will strive to do whatever He would like to have me do." John 15: 7-16; Matt. 28: 18-20.

Allen-Lyman.

A very pleasant affair was the wedding of Mr. Horton Sumner Allen of Newton and Miss Edith Lyman, daughter of Mrs. Lucy DePue Lyman, on Tuesday evening, at the bride's residence on Washington square, Salem. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. DeWitt S. Clark, assisted by Dr. W. H. Davis of the Eliot Congregational church, Newton, the couple standing in front of a bank of palms. The house was beautifully decorated with marguerites and sweet peas. The double ring service was used, the bride being given away by her brother, Dr. Charles Lyman of Denver. The maid of honor was Miss Allen Arey of Salem and the best man was Winthrop Allen, brother of the groom. The ushers were Garrett Clark of Salem, Augustus Wakefield of Newtonville, Wilbur L. Sampson and Howard Whitmore of Newton. On their return from a wedding tour, Mr. and Mrs. Allen will reside at 30 Pleasant street, Salem, where they will be at home on October third and tenth.

McClellan-Gorrell.

Miss Sara E. Gorrell and Mr. William J. McClellan, both of Newtonville, were married Monday evening at the house of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Miller at 5 Walnut terrace, Newtonville.

The officiating clergyman was Rev. Richard T. Loring, pastor of St. John's Episcopal church of Newtonville. The bride was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. J. Frank Miller. She was gown in white muslin over silk. Her only attendant was her niece, Rebecca Gorrell. The ushers were Hiram F. Forbes and James Read.

The ceremony was followed by a reception. Mr. and Mrs. McClellan will make their home on Walnut street.

My little son had an attack of whooping cough and was threatened with pneumonia; but for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy we would have had a serious time of it. It also saved him from several severe attacks of croup.—H. J. STICKERFADEN, editor World Herald, Fair Haven, Wash. For sale by all druggists.

Revenue Tax Changes.

Active preparation has been going on at the Internal Revenue Bureau for the changes in the internal taxes which take effect on July 1. The chief preparations required have been in connection with the redemption of unused stamps under the several important heads where the taxes have been completely repealed. The items repealed which most directly touch the public are the two cent tax on every bank check, the one cent levied on express receipts, and the one cent affixed to telegraphic messages. There are several other important taxes repealed, however, which will affect important interests and in many cases will reach the public. Among these are the stamps affixed to proprietary medicines, perfumery and other drugs, which have given so much annoyance to the thousands of druggists throughout the country. The ten cent tax on bills of lading terminates on June 30, and the high tax on charter parties suffers the same fate. There are important modifications of the rates on beer and cigars, but these taxes are far from being abolished. A compact summary of the changes made by the new law, which was not prepared officially, but which has been reviewed by the experts of the Internal Revenue Bureau, appears below:

PROVISIONS TO REDEEM STAMPS.

Claims for the redemption of adhesive documentary and proprietary stamps, if purchased from a collector, must contain his certificate as to the date and amount of purchase. If purchased from a dealer in stamps, such dealer's certificate as to the date and amount of purchase must be presented to the collector as to date of sale to the dealer must be furnished. Stamps that are not in the same condition as when issued will not be redeemed unless their condition is satisfactorily accounted for.

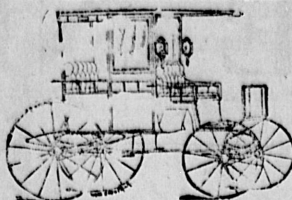

Documentary and proprietary stamps can be redeemed only when presented in quantities of $2 or more face value, and no claim for the redemption of or allowance for such stamps can be allowed unless presented within two years after the purchase of said stamps from the government.

All claims for the redemption of stamps in the form of checks, drafts and other instruments must be entered of record and forwarded to this office by the collector of the district in which the order for the imprinting of the stamps was purchased. If the claimant is a district collector, he must submit his claim to the collector of the district in which said stamps were purchased, his claim should be prepared and deposited with the collector of the district in which he resides, who will examine said claim and see that it is properly prepared in all respects, and cause it to be investigated and certified by one of his deputies, so far as it is practicable in that district, and will then forward it to the collector of the district in which the order for the imprinting of the stamps was issued, who will furnish the additional evidence required, and forward the claim to this office with proper certificate of recommendation. When claims are presented by any person or firm other than the one for whom the order for imprinting was issued and whose name or title does not appear upon the papers on which the stamps are printed, the collector, in addition to the certificate of the collector and deputy collector aforesaid, must satisfactorily establish the fact of ownership of the stamps and furnish a certificate of sale by each owner of them from the time of their purchase from the person or firm for whom the order for imprinting was issued.

The owners of imprinted instruments, checks, drafts, etc., who desire to have the stamps thereon redeemed must, in addition to filing claims as aforesaid, forward all such imprinted instruments securely packed to this office. Packages containing the same should be addressed to the commissioner of internal revenue, Washington, D. C., and each package should be plainly marked with the name and address of the owner who made the claim for redemption, and a statement of the number and kind of instruments contained in the package. Stamps for each claim should be packed separately, and no package should contain stamps presented for redemption on more than one claim. Under the law and regulations all stamped instruments and all imprinted checks, drafts, etc., presented for the redemption of the stamps thereon must, when the stamps are redeemed, be retained with the claim; therefore no such instruments can be returned to the owners thereof.

THE GAS REDUCTION.

The long anticipated action of the Gas Commission on the petitions for better and cheaper gas and electricity is made public this week, and it is safe to say that the result will not be greeted with enthusiasm.
The failure of the Commission to reduce the price of electricity is not unexpected, as the petitioners from Chestnut Hill were interested more in the matter of quality rather than that of price.

But the reduction of only ten cents in the price of gas is a distinct disappointment to those interested, as it was confidently expected that the petitioners had fully proved their case for dollar gas.
The conclusions of the commissioners in which the maintenance of the dividend is the first consideration of the Board is also a matter of comment, and there can be no question but what the interests of the Gas Company have been fully protected by the Commission.

THE MOTHER'S REST.

The very name of this most excellent charity will appeal to the hearts of everyone. The good work done last year at the old Almshouse at Waban by the ladies of the Newton Centre is to be continued again this season in a new location on Winchester street, Newton Highlands.
Why not make your own vacation sweeter and better by helping some tired old woman and baby, to enjoy a healthgiving rest.

The most prominent figure in the recent session of the legislature was Representative Chas. R. Saunders of Boston. Mr. Saunders is credited with the remarkably fair division of congressional districts recently made and has also had a hand in almost all the important legislation of the session.

One of the most beautiful spots in the city is on Walnut street near Mill street, Newtonville, where the brook from Bulfinch's pond crosses the street. Yet we venture to say that not one person in fifty has ever visited this most romantic dell, with its fine trees, and tumbling brook.

The reference of the petition of the Educational Society for use of the school yards for playgrounds during the summer, to a sub-committee which will not report until next September, is characteristic of the evident purpose of the present school board to discourage the right of petition.

The abolition of the most burdensome of the war taxes on Monday next, will be a great relief to all the people. Full particulars for redeeming unused revenue stamps will be found in this issue of the GRAPHIC.

NEXT week we shall begin a series of articles on city affairs, with the object of giving the public a few glimpses of the working machinery of municipal activities.

A FEATURE of the GRAPHIC through the summer months will be a weekly sermon from the pens of our gifted Newton clergymen.

Some 50 petitions are being circulated asking the city government to give all municipal work to Newton contractors and that only resident workmen be employed. These will probably be presented to the board of aldermen for consideration.

High School Notes.

Mr. S. Warren Davis, a High school teacher for nineteen years, has resigned to accept a position with former Master Goodwin in New York City.

Well, as everybody says, the graduation went off fine. The hall was very hot, but this did not detract from the interest in the speakers, which says a good deal for the merit of their compositions. After the opening prayer by Rev. Julian C. Jaynes the exercises went on as scheduled except for a few changes. After the singing of the Ode on the Rev. Mr. Hornbroke addressed the class and warned them not to think that their education was finished, but had only begun, and that he hoped they would continue it throughout life. After the benediction the pent up enthusiasm of the class found an outlet in cheering for everybody that they could think of, and especially of Mr. Davis, who is to leave, and whose absence is universally regretted. Mr. Adams also addressed the class, reminding them of the good work of Mr. Davis and his regret at his departure. Shortly before this the boys of Mr. Davis' room presented him with a gift in token of their appreciation for his efforts in their behalf. Then a grand rush was made for the front door to have their pictures taken, and then to the drill hall, where ice cream and cake was served to them by the junior class. Slowly but surely the groups dispersed to get ready for the class party at the Woodland Park Hotel in the evening.

Clubs and Lodges.

At the meeting of Gethsemane commandery held on Tuesday evening the following officers were chosen: E. C. Frank, L. N. N. G. Edmund G. Pond, C. G. Dr. W. F. Jarvis, prelate, George Breeden, treas. J. B. Fuller, Rec. Asa C. Jewett, S. W. W. Swain, J. W. J. E. Ryder, and James James Pickens, sword bearer. T. C. Nickerson, warder, E. S. Benedict, guards, J. M. Beck, H. W. Crowell, W. L. Church, W. D. Smith, H. E. Adams, J. A. Potter; Organist, G. H. Brown, Sentinel, George E. Bridges, Armorer, E. E. Williams. The officers were installed by P. C. A. L. Harwood.

D. J. Linnehan has been elected and installed vice regent of Triton council, Royal Arch in place of T. J. Klockner, resigned.

District Deputy F. M. Dutch of West Newton is to install the officers of a Boston lodge, I. O. O. F. next Tuesday evening.
An event of much importance in Masonic circles was the field day given under the auspices of Trinity Commandery in Hudson last Monday. The visiting brethren were from Cambridge, Gethsemane, Jerusalem, Milford and Natick commanderies. Gethsemane commandery of Newtonville, 75 men; em com, Samuel Shaw; Gen. Frank L. Nagle; Capt. Gen. E. G. Pond with Town's First Cavalry band 23 men, Elmer C. Town, leader left Newtonville for Waltham on special electric cars at 7.30 a. m. From there a special train was taken and the rest of the trip was made in company with Cambridge commandery. The program consisted of a parade followed by a banquet and speeches held in the town hall. On the return from Hudson the commandery was entertained by Monitor lodge of Waltham.

A large number of members of Mt. Ida council, No. 1247, Royal Arch, attended the preaching service at Central Congregational church, Newtonville last Sunday morning. The sermon was by Rev. O. S. Davis who took for his text, "Let Brotherly Love Continue." At the regular meeting Monday evening the degree was conferred on seven candidates by the degree staff of Rumford council of Waltham. Guests were present from Boston, Brookline, Allston, and surrounding towns. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Caterer Hyslop.

In Odd Fellows Hall, West Newton, last evening Newton lodge, 92, I. O. O. F. entered the grand officers and some 300 members of the lodges of Waltham, Watertown and surrounding towns. The working of the degrees was the interesting feature of the evening's program. The first degree was worked by the degree staff of Lafayette lodge of Watertown, the second degree by Gov. Gore lodge of Waltham and the third degree by Newton lodge.

Divisions 25 and 35 A. O. H. will parade at Watertown next Sunday afternoon at the dedication of St. Patrick's church.

Church of Our Lady's School Graduates.

The closing exercises of Our Lady's school was held last evening before a large audience of enthusiastic and admiring relatives and friends which completely filled the school hall on Adams street.

The chief feature of the very elaborate and interesting program was the rendering of the Cantata of Esther. The singing was excellent and the acting of the principals and those of the most important roles was highly satisfactory.

Between act 2 and 3 of the cantata there was an essay by Eva C. MacMahon.
An oriental dance followed act 3, and the valedictory by John T. Kerens came at the close of the last act.

The honors were bestowed in the form of diplomas and were given by Rev. Fr. Walsh. From the high school courses there were these graduates: 4 years classical, John F. Kerens and Eva C. MacMahon; from the two years commercial course, Bernard McFadden, Mary Sweeney, Daniel Sweeney and Anna Condon. Diplomas were awarded to about thirty pupils from the grammar school.

Do Not Drink While Eating.

Liquids at meals if taken too often or too carelessly are liable to dilute the gastric juices. Take no liquid of any kind when food is in the mouth. Take as little as possible till the close of the meal. The digestive agents themselves being fluids, it is reasonable to suppose that an excess of liquids taken with the food will have a tendency to dilute and thereby weaken the digestive juices.—Ladies' Home Journal.

An Apology and a Settlement.

When the theater crowd was at its thickest on Broadway on Saturday night, a well set up man of medium size, wearing a glossy silk hat, hurried along. In dodging through the throng the handle of the cane he carried caught the arm of one of two burly persons who were going in the same direction. He half turned as if to apologize, but before he could do so one of the pair smashed his silk hat with a heavy stick.

"I beg your pardon, sir," said the man, blandly taking off his battered tile. "My rudeness was unintentional."

Putting back the damaged hat on his head, he dropped his cane and said, "Now I propose to settle with you for a blackguard."

Those on the spot saw a flash of fists. The big man went flat on his back from a clean smash on the jaw.

"If you want any more, I am ready to oblige you," said the other.

The other apparently didn't. The smaller man picked up his stick, took off his damaged silk hat, brushed it and continued on his way down Broadway. And the crowd of spectators, who had gathered as if by magic, broke up with the feeling that they had seen, as neat a bit of work as it would ever be their good fortune to encounter.—New York Sun.

Much of Little.

The stranger in any city half a hundred years old, if he knew nothing of the city's history, would learn from many of the signs that the second and third generations had succeeded to the business of father and grandfather. It is especially true of New York. The New York Tribune mentions some peculiar signs and relates the following:

A Londoner who had strolled about the streets of the city with a New Yorker who called his attention to some of the signs of sons agreed that in this respect New York was very like London, but in neither city was there any such sign as he saw in one of the old English towns a few hours' run from the world's metropolis. The sign reads, "John Littlejohn's Sons & Little (Little Littlejohn, Doolittle Littlejohn & John Little)."

According to the Londoner the first Littlejohn and Little were partners. The former gave his first son his partner's family name, and Little gave his boy his partner's Christian name. Littlejohn's second son was named for his mother's family, Doolittle. The three sons succeeded to their fathers' business; hence the sign is entirely correct, and the Londoner was right in saying that the successors had no intention of being "funny" when they had their sign written as it appears.

Dangerous Economy.

A paragraph about an economical merchant in Broadway saving the backs of old envelopes for scratch paper reminds an old friend of this story: A New York dealer, who left about $2,000,000, for a long time kept up the practice of tearing off the fly sheets of the numerous foolscap letters he received and sticking them on a spindle for scribbling purposes. Envelopes were not yet in use. A lawsuit arose, and the merchant thought he had won his case when defendant's letter, duly signed, was produced. Counsel for defendant examined the letter and, turning it over to look for the superscription, found that it was missing. He immediately saw his advantage and said: "This letter is incomplete, your honor. A sheet is missing. I claim that there might have been a postscript on the other sheet which would entirely change the character of the order." The court so ruled, and defendant won the suit. The practice of utilizing fly sheets in that merchant's office was at once discontinued.—New York Press.

A Sergeant's Surprise.

"When Indians were being recruited for the regular army," said a western representative, "it was the custom to give them civilized names. Down at Fort Apache army officers were recruiting Yumas and Apaches. A recruiting sergeant was naming them. Finally a company had been formed, and the first sergeant, who was an American, went out to the front and center to report his company to the commanding officer.
"Company D, sir, four privates absent."
"Who are they?" asked the commanding officer.
"Jay Gould, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Joe Jefferson and Russell Sage, sir," shouted the sergeant."—New York World.

Fashion's Demands.

The conscientious young man of fashion now brushes his hair differently when wearing a hat. Chancellor Tisdall, the acknowledged Beau Brummel of Dublin in his youth, had inexpressibles variously cut for walking and for sitting and once sat down in the former with disastrous results. Not long ago a milliner advertised with a newly invented hat that it "necessitated the mouth worn slightly open." What shall we come to next?—Vanity Fair.

Irritating.

"So Mrs. Gaylord insists on a separation at last, does she? Well, he has neglected her shamefully."

"Oh, she didn't mind that particular."

"What was the trouble, then?"

"Why, whenever he was a little good to her he was so very virtuous about it that she just couldn't stand it."—Harper's Bazar.

The actors' green room is so called because its floor in the time of Shakespeare was always covered with green rushes.

Medieval knights often took a voluntary oath that they would never spare the life of an enemy.

The Twentieth Century.

The advent of the new century is to be commemorated by the Newton GRAPHIC in the publication of a handsomely bound volume, entitled, "Newton, The Garden City of the Commonwealth, 1874-1901." It will contain valuable and interesting historical matter, fully illustrated with half tone engravings of churches, schools, residences, street views, parks, etc. The history will tell of leading events, characters and progress of the city, and the many advantages of Newton as a beautiful and desirable place of residence will be fully shown. The volume will also contain the portraits and biographies of representative men who, in their lives, their work or their influence have made Newton of to-day the garden city of the Commonwealth and of New England.

It is believed that such a work will commend itself to the citizens of Newton as bringing together a carefully collated record of the lives of men who have contributed to the welfare of our city; men of whom we are justly proud as educators, lawyers, physicians, clergy men and men of affairs.

Such a publication at this time will give to the present, an up to date account of the city and will bequeath to the future a legacy of what Newton was at the beginning of what promises to be a most remarkable century.

The Wilbur Bros., caterers at Centre street, Newton, are making an enviable reputation for their delicious ices and cakes, good service and reasonable prices.

The Twentieth Century.

The advent of the new century is to be commemorated by the Newton GRAPHIC in the publication of a handsomely bound volume, entitled, "Newton, The Garden City of the Commonwealth, 1874-1901." It will contain valuable and interesting historical matter, fully illustrated with half tone engravings of churches, schools, residences, street views, parks, etc. The history will tell of leading events, characters and progress of the city, and the many advantages of Newton as a beautiful and desirable place of residence will be fully shown. The volume will also contain the portraits and biographies of representative men who, in their lives, their work or their influence have made Newton of to-day the garden city of the Commonwealth and of New England.

It is believed that such a work will commend itself to the citizens of Newton as bringing together a carefully collated record of the lives of men who have contributed to the welfare of our city, of whom we are justly proud as educators, lawyers, physicians, clergymen and men of affairs.

Such a publication at this time will give to the present generation a full account of the city and will bequeath to the future the legacy of what Newton was at the beginning of what promises to be a most remarkable century.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

BOSTON MUSIC HALL, VAUDEVILLE—At Boston Music Hall, individual acts of the performance should be scored by Mlle. Fatma Diard, late prima donna with the Bostonians. She will be heard in several operatic selections, including the difficult mad scene from Lucia de Lammermoor; the title role of which she has interpreted repeatedly with brilliant effect. Lewis and Ryan, two of the funniest comedians on the stage will be seen in "The Ticket of Leave Man," "Almont and Dumont," "The Instrumental Hussars," will be pleasantly remembered as capable performers on the saxophone, French horns, and other wind instruments; Seymour and Van Buren, two of the best comedians in the city, will be seen in "The Little Rogers Brothers," "In songs and dances," and Phoebe, whose last name is not given, but who comes heralded as a superb vocalist, will present a novelty called "The Illuminated Niche." Then there will be Gorman's bicycle polo team in exciting contests; the D'Elmar Trio, expert ball jugglers; the Great Richards, a clever female impersonator; Ford and Cantwell, blackface comedians; Doyle and Granger, the latter a fine toe dancer; Seymour and Van Buren, two pretty girls who can sing and dance; Emma Cotterly, juggler and equilibrist, and the Vitaphone.

The Japanese Tea Garden's fame is spreading over all New England, and all who visit this picturesque spot depart with only pleasant impressions. There is nothing like it in the country.

Didn't Marry For Money.

The Boston man who lately married a sickly rich young woman is happy now, for he got Dr. King's New Life Pills, which restored her to perfect health. Infallible for Jaundice, Biliousness, Malaria, Fever and Ache and all Liver and Stomach troubles. Gentle but effective. Only 25c at Arthur Hudson's drug store.

Competent, but Uncanny.

A. A. Gallagher, district passenger agent of the Missouri Pacific railroad, while en route south was taken quite ill and was compelled to stop at Montgomery, Ala. He went to a hotel and sent for a physician.

The medical man said: "You have a case of pneumonia and must have a nurse."

"All right," said Gallagher. "Do you know a good nurse you can send to look after me?"

The doctor said he did and would have the nurse at the hotel within an hour. In about an hour a colored woman who measured about nine feet in girth put in an appearance, and Gallagher asked her if she had ever nursed sick people.

"Yes, indeed," she replied. "I've had considerable experience with all kinds of cases. I nursed Marster John, and he died; then I nursed Mistress Lucy, and she died; then I nursed Mistress Lucy's sister. The doctor didn't think she was so very poorly, but she done died."

"Have you had any other experience in nursing?" asked Gallagher.

"Yes, indeed. Only last week I left Colonel Carter's house, where I nursed the colonel for five days."

"Well, did the colonel get well?" asked Gallagher.

"No. The colonel he died, too, but Dr. Jones, who 'tended him, run a big knife into the colonel and opened him up. The doctor had been out late the night before and was a little nervous. The knife sort of slipped and just about cut the colonel's heart out. Then the doctor said all he—couldn't save him."

"You seem to be a good nurse," said Gallagher, "and you're engaged."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Not So Far Gone.

The last letter he received from wife conveyed the intelligence that she was quite sick, and of course he was considerably worried. But he was comforted by the fact that she was with her mother. He wrote her an affectionate letter and told her to be sure and let him know if she grew worse. The next letter conveyed the intelligence that she was a little worse, though the doctor said it was nothing serious. But he worried a great deal.

The next afternoon a telegraph boy sauntered into his office with the usual nonchalance of a messenger boy conveying a "rush" message and shoved the book under hubby's nose.

"Is dis Mr. Blank?" asked the boy.

"Yes," gasped hubby, cold chills chasing up and down his spine.

"Message fr you. Sign here. De charges is 60 cents."

Hubby grabbed the fat envelope and hastily tore it open. What he suffered while tremblingly unfolding the bit of yellow paper can be imagined, but not described. He was all most afraid to read it, but finally he nerved himself for the worst. This is what he read:

"Turn off the water and don't forget to give the bird plenty of seed."—Omaha World-Herald.

The Coroner's Two Verdicts.

"Inquests are sometimes very funny affairs," remarked a western man. "I remember one in the early days of my county in Kansas. A man was found dead by the side of a small stream out on the prairie. No mark was found on his well dressed body. His gun was fully loaded in his hip pocket, and $25 was found in his pocketbook. Of course the coroner took charge of the money. A jury was impaneled and after finishing its deliberations found that the man clearly died of heart failure.

The coroner promptly paid from the dead man's pile the $12 due for expenses and discharged the jury. The $13 remaining bothered him. He argued that to turn that $13 over to the county, to be held in trust for the man's possible relatives, would be the same as throwing it away. The man was a stranger in those parts. Possibly he had no friends.

The coroner was equal to the occasion, however. He declared himself dissatisfied with the verdict and called the jury together again. They sat on the body a second time and found exactly the same verdict, but the coroner's mind was at ease. The $25 was exhausted."—Washington Star.

Less Hopeful For Himself.

George, the colored janitor, needed some money and went to the church treasurer for it.

"There isn't a cent in my hands just now, George," said that officer, "and won't be till next Sunday's collections are handed over. Can't you wait till then?"

"Don't see how I kin, Mistah Gubney," persisted George. "K'yarn't run de house widout money."

"The best I can do for you," returned the treasurer, "will be to advance you $3 out of my own pocket and run my risk of getting it back from the church."

"Well, sub," solemnly rejoined the janitor, "ef you don't git it back 'm de chu'ch, Mistah Gubney, you'll git 'y reward in de good world, but it's didn't wid me. Ef I can't git dat free dollahs f'm you, I'd like t' know what I kin!"—Chicago Tribune.

Suspicious.

Believe not Old Gentleman (to fellow passenger).—How fast we travel! But, ah, young man, have you ever thought of the flight of time? Think of the fleeting hours of youth, the golden days that swiftly pass away. Have you ever counted the minutes—Battersby (unregenerate and suspicious)—What are you trying to do? Sell me a watch?—London Nuggets.

Happiness.

Some folks tries so hard to be happy in dis world dey gits miserable tryin. Happiness is alius whar you ain't lookin fer it.—Atlanta Constitution.

Discouraging the Book Agent.

"Got books?" snapped the diminutive guard at the threshold of the big office.

"Yes, young man; I have books," responded the woman with the portfolio. "Just step aside. I'm going in to see your employer."

"Afore yer goes," said the boy, still covering the sill, "I wants to tell yer dat de boss just upset his ink. He ain't in no lovin' mood."

"Oh, he will listen to my demonstration."

"Maybe he will, but I wants to tell yer dat he just got a telephone call sayin dat burglars had carried off de waluables of his house."

"Still?"

"Den de news just came dat his trotter run away an smashed up de trap an coachman."

"That is very bad, but—"

"Just afore yer came a young fellow rushes in an tells de boss dat his naphtha launch has been fired by tramps."

"I sympathize with him, and maybe—"

"De boss goes to look at his watch an finds de mainspring broken."

"Graciously! But—"

"Den comes de news dat S an Z stock has dropped 20 points. De boss finds dat mice has gnawed up his new insurance calendar. De glue upsets on a thousand stamps."

"Terrible! Yet—"

"But wait! Just as you comes up stairs de boss asks over de telephone whether it's a boy or girl. Somebody says twins and—"

But the book agent had vanished. The boss came out and patted the boy on the head.

"Patsy, you are a brick! Take the rest of the afternoon off. Here's fare to Lincoln park."—Chicago News.

Great Drawing to a Bobtail Pair.

"The most remarkable draw I ever saw made at poker was in a Chicago club one night," said a Chicago man. "There were five of us in a little social game, with a limit of $25 and all jack pots. A friend of mine whom I will call Jones was dealing. I was first under the guns and passed, as did also the two men sitting next. The fifth man—we will say his name was Brown—opened the pot for $5. Jones didn't have the shadow of a thing in his hands, but he raised Brown $10, intending to stand pat and bluff it out. Brown had three aces, and he came back at Jones with $10 better.

"Now, instead of laying down, as a wise man should in a case like that, Jones determined to see it through. He knew, of course, that it would be useless to try to bluff, so he drew three cards to a king and queen of spades. Brown had drawn two cards to his aces and had got a small pair. As a bait he led off the betting with $5. Jones hadn't looked at his hand until Brown bet, and when he picked up his cards he almost fell dead. He had drawn an ace, jack and ten of spades, making a royal flush. They raised each other back and forth until one or the other had all his money in, and when the hands were shown the game broke up right there."—Washington Post.

The Time to Break the Rule.

There is an anecdote in some volume of French theatrical memoirs narrating an experience of Mlle. Clairon, the great tragic actress, with a pupil of hers, a girl of strong natural gifts for the histrionic art, but far too frequent and too exuberant in her gesticulation. So when the pupil was once to appear before the public in a recitation Mlle. Clairon bound the girl's arms to her side by a stiff thread and sent her thus upon the stage.

With the first strong feeling she had to express the pupil tried to raise her arms, only to be restrained by the thread. A dozen times in the course of her recitation she was prevented from making the gestures she desired until at the very end she could stand it no longer, and in the climax of her emotion she broke her bonds and swung her hands to her head.

When she came off the stage, she went humbly to where Mlle. Clairon was standing in the wings and apologized for having snapped the thread.

"But you did quite right!" said the teacher. "That was the time to make the gesture, not before!"—Brander Matthews in Harper's Magazine.

A Chinese Mother-in-Law Story.

"The Experiences of a British Pharmacist in China" was the title of an address by Mr. Frank Browne, who was introduced as the government analyst at Hongkong.

As illustrating the Chinese regard for filial piety the lecturer told an interesting mother-in-law story. A man and his wife maltreated the husband's mother. As a punishment the scene of the act was openly cursed, the active agents were put to death, and the mother of the wife was banished, branded and exiled for her daughter's crime. The house in which the offenders lived was dug up from the foundations. Moreover, the scholars of the district were precluded from attending public examinations, and even the magistrates were deprived of their office. These drastic measures were designed to render the empire filial.—London News.

The Good Man's Joke.

Two gentlemen of the cloth were standing on a corner the other day. Evidently they were talking about extra services to be held during the week.

"I anticipate a great awakening in my church," said the first speaker.

"My people never go to sleep," said the second.

"Ah, there comes my car," replied the first, and they parted company.—Albany Journal.

Too Well Disguised.

"After all," suggested the cheerful one, "it may be a blessing in disguise."

"If so," returned the disgruntled one, "I may say that I never saw a more perfect disguise."—Washington Post.

A Fable For Women.

There was once a Woman who Felt that her Husband staid out too Late at Night. She therefore Devised a Plan to Cure him of this. Her Plan was to Rise Early in order to Injure his Retiring Early.

"Only in this Way will he be able to get Enough Sleep," she said.

Her Husband, who usually Endeavored to Please her, rose Without Complaint at Six O'clock, but Continued to stay Out Late. Perceiving that her Purpose was not Accomplished, the Woman changed the Hour to Five O'clock.

"The Morning Hours are the Best for Work," she said, "and I understand that the Morning Air possesses Great Virtues."

Her Husband Objected, but Rose at Five, as she Wished.

Still he continued to Come In Late. Then the Woman fixed the Hour at Four-thirty.

"I have always enjoyed Seeing the Sun Rise," she said.

"In that Case," said her Husband decidedly, "I Shall Not go to bed At All, since it would Not be Worth my While. I will Stay up All Night and take my Sleep at My Office in the Afternoon. So We will have Breakfast at Three O'clock if you like."

This teaches us that the Early Worm will Turn—Century.

Always Willing to Oblige.

It was a Texas town, and a long limbed Texan was making across the public square toward the courthouse with a revolver in his hand when he was stopped by a man who asked:

"Are you on your way to the courthouse?"

"Yes, sir; I am," was the reply.

"Going to shoot anybody?"

"Yes, sir; Lawyer Johnson. If it hadn't been for him, I shouldn't have lost my case yesterday. Yes, sir; going to fill him full of lead."

"Are you in any great hurry about it?"

"No special hurry, but when I have shooting on hand I like to get it off my mind as soon as possible."

"Of course; but, you see, Lawyer Johnson is now arguing a case for me and won't be through for 40 minutes. He's going to win it for sure if not interrupted, and if you will only hold on for awhile you will do me a great favor."

"Why, certainly; glad you mentioned it; no hurry about the shooting so as it comes off today, and you can count on me. Have a drink with you? With the greatest of pleasure, and if Johnson is a particular friend of yours I'll shoot him as softly as I can and give him every show to die like a gentleman."—Boston Globe.

The Useful Telephone.

Two young ladies on St. Paul street went to the theater the other evening, and their father, thinking they had a latchkey, went to bed at his usual hour, and the servants all left. When the ladies returned, they rang the bell repeatedly and beat on the door, but got no answer. Finally they began to despair, when a neighbor who had been awakened by the din appeared in white at his window opposite and asked what was the matter.

"We are locked out and cannot awake papa," came the reply in duet.

"Wait a minute," said the quick-witted man on the other side of the street. "Your father has a telephone in his room, and I will call him up." So the central was called.

"Give me number —" said the neighbor.

As soon as the bell sounded in the room of the sleeping father he awoke with a start and ran to the telephone.

"Hello, what is the matter?"

"Is that you, So-and-so?"

"Yes; what is wanted?"

"Your daughters are at the front door trying to get in. Open the door. Good night."—Baltimore Sun.

A Skeleton.

"What is a skeleton? Can you tell me, children?" asked a teacher of her Sunday school class.

The infant class looked troubled. Their ideas on the subject were of the most vague description and, they seemed to think, hardly worth mentioning. The question passed down the class almost to the very foot, meeting only a blank look or a shake of the head, until at last the smallest tot of all ventured a reply:

"Pleath, mith, it ith a man without any meat on it."—London Answers.

On Better Authority.

"You are looking handsome tonight, Miss Flite," Bagster remarked in the pauses of the dance.

"So Mr. Smythe told me a few minutes ago."

Conflicting Orders.

"The average photographer," said Henpeck musingly, "is an unreasonable creature."

"What's the matter now?" asked his friend.

"Oh, while my wife was sitting for her picture today the fool photographer sung out: 'Look pleasant, please. Be natural!'"—Philadelphia Press.

Black Teeth.

The custom of women in Japan at marriage giving their teeth an everlasting coating of blacking is practiced now by only a small percentage, but there are still seen in the cities hundreds of women hideous with black ivory, and dentists' showcases contain sets of black teeth.

PLAIN TALK

In Open Session of the School Board.

Great Amount of Important Business Considered.

Wednesday evening's session was one of the busiest that the reporters have been admitted to this year. Not all the members were present but matters of importance came thick and fast and there was no adjournment until nearly 10 o'clock.

There was a long discussion provoked by a bill of $2.75 for carriage hire for 2-3 hours, submitted by a Newton Centre delivery man, and before the matter was settled nearly every member had something to say. And so far as debate was concerned it was certainly the liveliest that the board has indulged in in open session for many meetings.

Mr. Daniel Dewey of Ward 7, chairman of the finance committee, read a report of that body, which recommended that a bill of $2.75 for the use of a public carriage be not paid. Mr. Rand of Ward 6 immediately moved as an amendment to the report that the bill be paid.

Mr. Dewey said that there was a rule of the board which calls for the authorization of expenditures of money by the board and as in this case it had not been done, the finance committee could not recommend the bill's approval.

"Nothing like it has ever come before the finance committee, and we question its legality. This bill dates back about a year. There was at that time a teacher at Newton Centre whom it seemed desirable to have resign quietly."

"It seems that she didn't. It was intended to shoo her gently, but that particular hen didn't run under the barn, but came out into the open and showed her orow of defiance. Then there was the dickens to pay in Newton Centre."

"These young men who hired this carriage, hired it to get out of town. They got away and stayed 2 and 3-4 hours. It was a case of backing down, for that teacher's name was later pressed for nomination and it was confirmed. This was vexatious."

"There is no meritorious claim, for the city received no benefit. No money was earned and therefore the city should not be expected to pay."

Mr. Abbott Bassett of Ward 2 said it was his opinion that the bill should be paid. The board was divided 4-3.

Mr. Luntzweiler of Ward 5 said he did not believe in looking for small things, and considered the non-payment of any such bill was pretty small potatoes. He continued along the same line and urged the board to approve a bill of $5 for back hire which was contracted at last meeting by a member who rode five miles to his home rather than walk at 2 o'clock in the morning. "And it was raining great guns," he added.

Mr. Rand of Ward 6, the member who had joint use of the carriage mentioned in the $2.75 bill, said he believed Mr. Dewey's argument to be the best he had ever heard him make. "The main issue was entirely lost sight of," he observed.

Continuing he thought the question of benefit had nothing to do with the matter. The bill was reasonable, and he declared himself to be one of the Ward 6 committee who participated in the ride.

So far as precedent was concerned Mr. Rand knew of several cases where carriages had been hired under like circumstances. The bills had been approved and paid.

"Possibly," he said, "this was before Mr. Dewey's time, but it was before Mr. Dewey's time."

Mr. Rand declared he was willing to abide by the decision of the board. The merits of the case were known and it lay with the members.

Mr. B. Hornbrooke of Ward 1 was of the opinion that the bill should be paid. "The school board gets no salary and little praise, and I believe that they should not be asked to pay for the privilege of transacting the city's business."

Mr. Gorham of Ward 3 was afraid that it would be breaking away from a well established rule if the board voted to pay the bill. The rules of the board were that if governed it and should not be lost sight of, he questioned the legality of paying the bill.

Mr. Rand read section 16 of the rules and declared that his interpretation of the Ward 6 committee had a perfect right to hire the carriage. It was no personal matter with these members it was an official action, for they were visiting schools in other sections of the city.

The amendment was put and carried. Messrs. Dewey, Gorham and Howard voted against it. The original motion was put and it was voted that the bill should be paid.

The question of paying the bill of $5 for carriage hire at last month's meeting, which, by the way, did not adjourn until 2 o'clock, was brought up. Mr. E. Howard was opposed on the grounds of precedent. Mr. Luntzweiler told of the weather on that occasion and Mr. Benner, chairman, said in his mind it was perfectly all right to pay the bill. A motion to pay this effect was put and carried.

In executive session Superintendent of schools Albert B. Fildes was unanimously re-elected and his salary increased from $
